Debbi Penner

Debbie,

Well another year is almost over and Im glad that you and I became friends and I hope that you have fun this summer and I will most likely see you so I hope maybe we can get some classes together and we can become even Better Friends. I hope you have a great Summer. And I know that you can, because you can always get High and that's Great. I know you can't believe me but people do change. I hope you consider me a friend to.

I hope to See ya this summer

Love ya Dear!

Betty Hibner

Debbie -

Well Biology II I'll Soon be Over by Jr. glad those were some like you in class with me. Remember stay in up all night with those term papers? Was it worth it? I like Mrs. Patton. Summer I'll see ya Dear

Connie Phillips

Salty,
It's nice to have a friend. Like you. Buckles class was a laugh-a-minute. almost. You know how you made your good grades, don't ya? Copying + cheating off of me. But, you're pretty nice so I hope to see alot of ya this summer. OK?

Spectamer Agenda,

Rusty

Dear Rusty,
I didn't realize you were so good at cheating. I'm surprised you didn't get caught until the 3rd grade. I'm glad you're not mad at me for copying off of you. I guess I'll just have to find someone else to cheat off of. Maybe you might be able to help me out this summer. I'll see what I can do. Maybe we can read together or something. Anyway I'll see you around. Maybe we can read a book together this summer. Oh yeah, I almost forgot. Happy Birthday!!! Well, have fun and stay out of trouble. Good luck with your reading!

Love & kisses,
Bobby March

Debbie,
It's been fun having class with you. Hope really a nice partner.
Hope to see you sometime
I'll see ya next year
Bye,
Liz Silas

A year is a total of moments — moments of pleasure, moments of work,
and of relaxation.
The 1974 Viking Log attempts to capture some of the moments that made up this year.

There were special moments — moments of concentration and study,
of pain and anxiety,
of forbidden pleasure,
and the very special moment of the Viking Festival.

There were times for giving assistance, for reflection and interpretation,
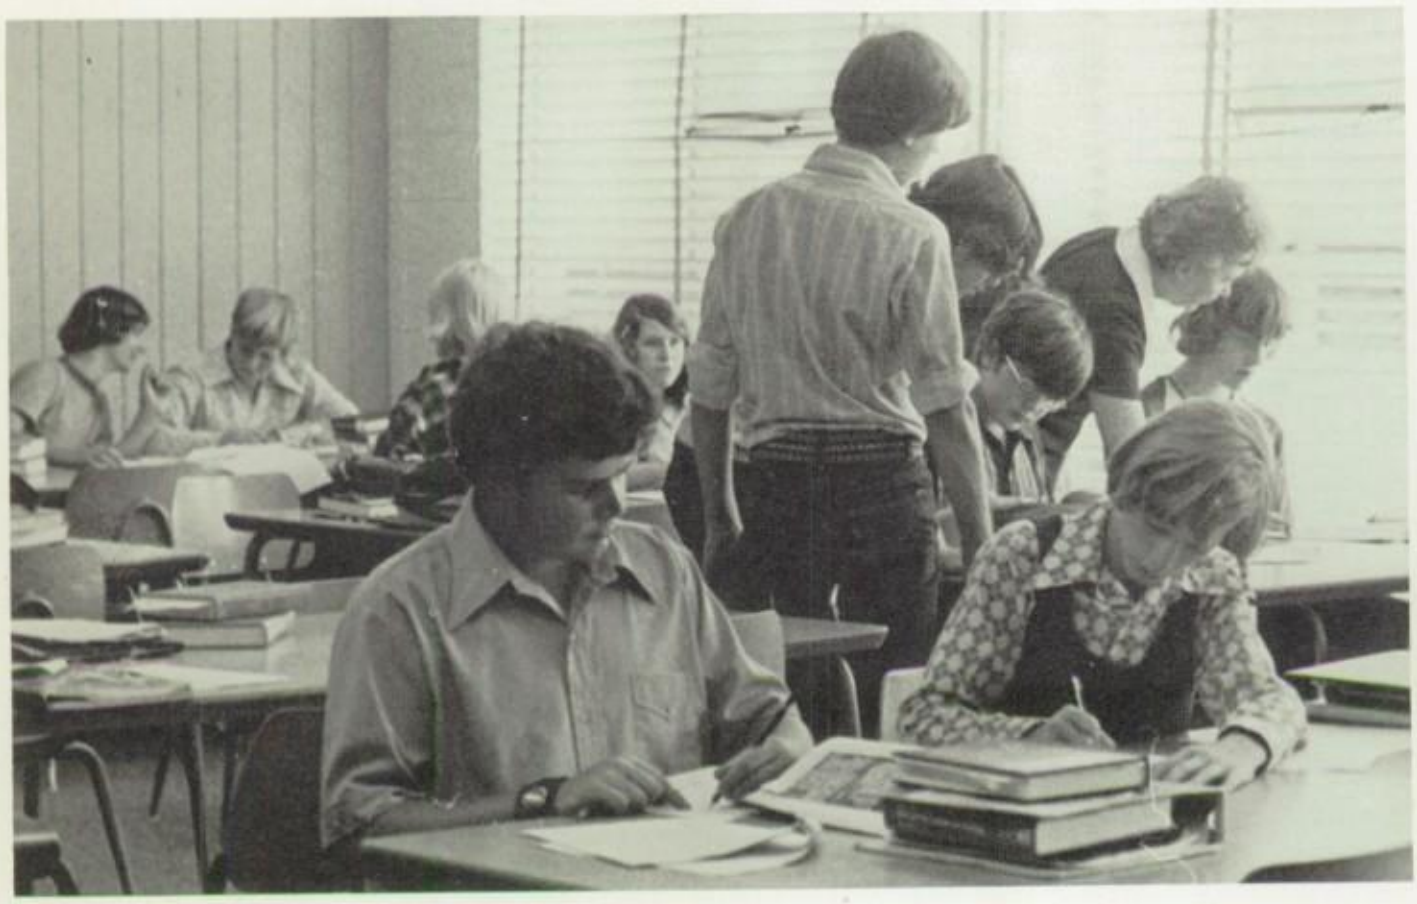
for serious communication,
for just talking to each other.



Debbie
Its been decent sittin' next to ya in English. Hope we can get together & party sometime this summer. See you next year

Some of the moments of this year will never be forgotten — the moments spent with friends at a school having something for everyone.

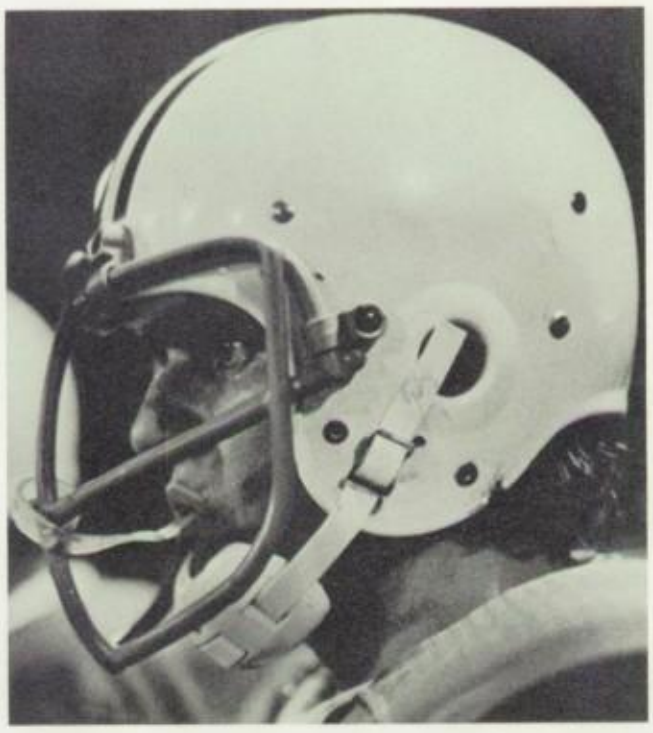
There were exciting moments — pep rallies and cheering for the Vikings at games, the thrill of victory, the tension at the threat of defeat, moments reflecting the spirit of Parkview students.



74

Then came the final moments — the last tests, the empty classrooms,
the solitude of deserted halls, and, for seniors, the climax of the year — graduation.

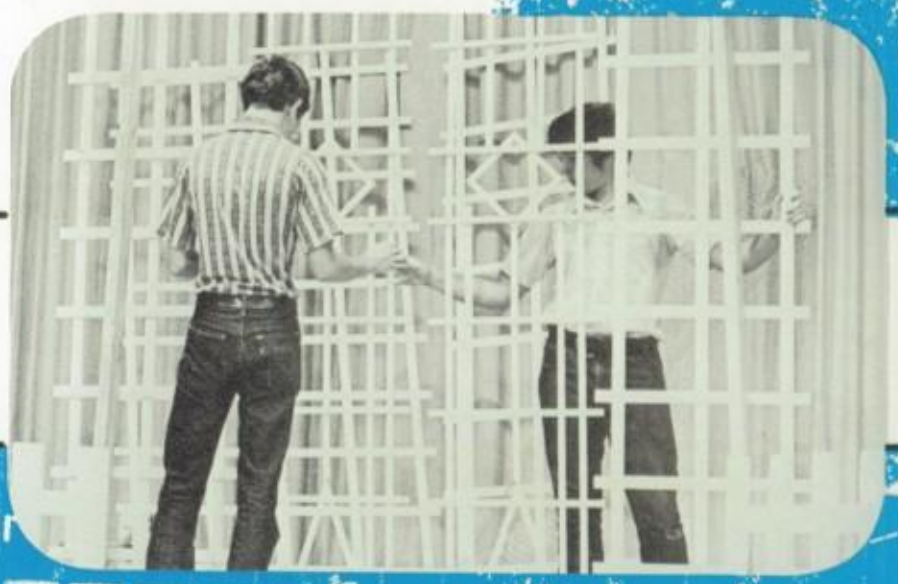
School Life . . .



Debbie,

I really enjoyed having you in my art class cause you always had an answer to all my boy problems. I also thought it was funnier than hell listening to each others weekends. I hope you have a fantastic summer, which I'm sure you will. And remember to cause as much ~~trouble~~ trouble as you can, which I'm sure you will.

Happy High

Oh by the way I hope you & your mom work out your problems. (Not really But I couldn't think of anything else to say

It all started about the end of August as Student Council members began working on the Viking Festival. Making decorations, selecting a theme, choosing a band, preparing for the election of royalty were crowded into the first weeks of school.

For the day, the calendar was turned back to the 1890's under the theme, "Those were the days." Royalty, in long gowns and carrying dainty umbrellas, and their escorts, wearing mustaches and bowler hats, were part of the nostalgic atmosphere of the assembly.

A skit presented by the dramatics department publicized the dance. Football squads and their coaches were introduced with varsity players demonstrating plays. The band, Vikettes, and cheerleaders helped boost the Viking spirit and a performance by the Lassies was climaxed by the presentation of Viking Queen candidates and their attendants.

Vickie Gleason was announced as the 1974 Viking Queen at half-time ceremonies at the game. A dance followed the Viking victory over Kansas City East.

by Phillip Page at half-time ceremonies.

Attendants and Viking Queen candidates were introduced in the Viking Day assembly.

Senior royalty Beverly Williams, Vickie Gleason, and Jill Kuklenski cheered for the Vikings.

Freshman Attendants
Stephanie Miller and Debbie Downing.

Sophomore Attendants Penny Galloway and Debbie Harrison.

Junior Attendants Diane Wilson and Tammy Vaughan.

Viking Queen Vicki Gleason.

"Being Queen was one of the greatest honors I could ever have. I will always remember that scary moment standing on the field waiting for the announcement — and the joy that followed," commented Vicki Gleason.

Vicki was elected as Viking Queen in a general school election the day of the Viking Festival. Junior, sophomore, and freshman attendants were elected by their own classes. Three seniors were named as candidates for queen with the runners up serving as senior attendants.

Senior Attendants Jill Kuklenski and Beverly Williams.

Ice and Snow Gave

Parkview students a couple of impromptu — and welcome — vacations last winter, but when the weather closed down school January 11, it also cancelled Basketball Day festivities.

"Behind Castle Walls," the theme of the dance that never happened, was carried on in an assembly January 25, in which the royalty was introduced, the Queen announced, and the "King of Parkview," a first this year, was introduced.

King and Queen were elected in a school-wide election and attendants were elected by their respective classes.

Janet Hockett was crowned queen by King Charlie Arnold, with John Northrip and Dale Flowers serving as senior knights. Attendants were Becci Barrett and Debi Wilson, seniors; Sally Edel and Joy Ganus, juniors; Rayanna Miekly and Tani Whorton, sophomores; and Janell Ganus and Carrie Rook, freshmen.

One basketball beauty was especially outstanding.

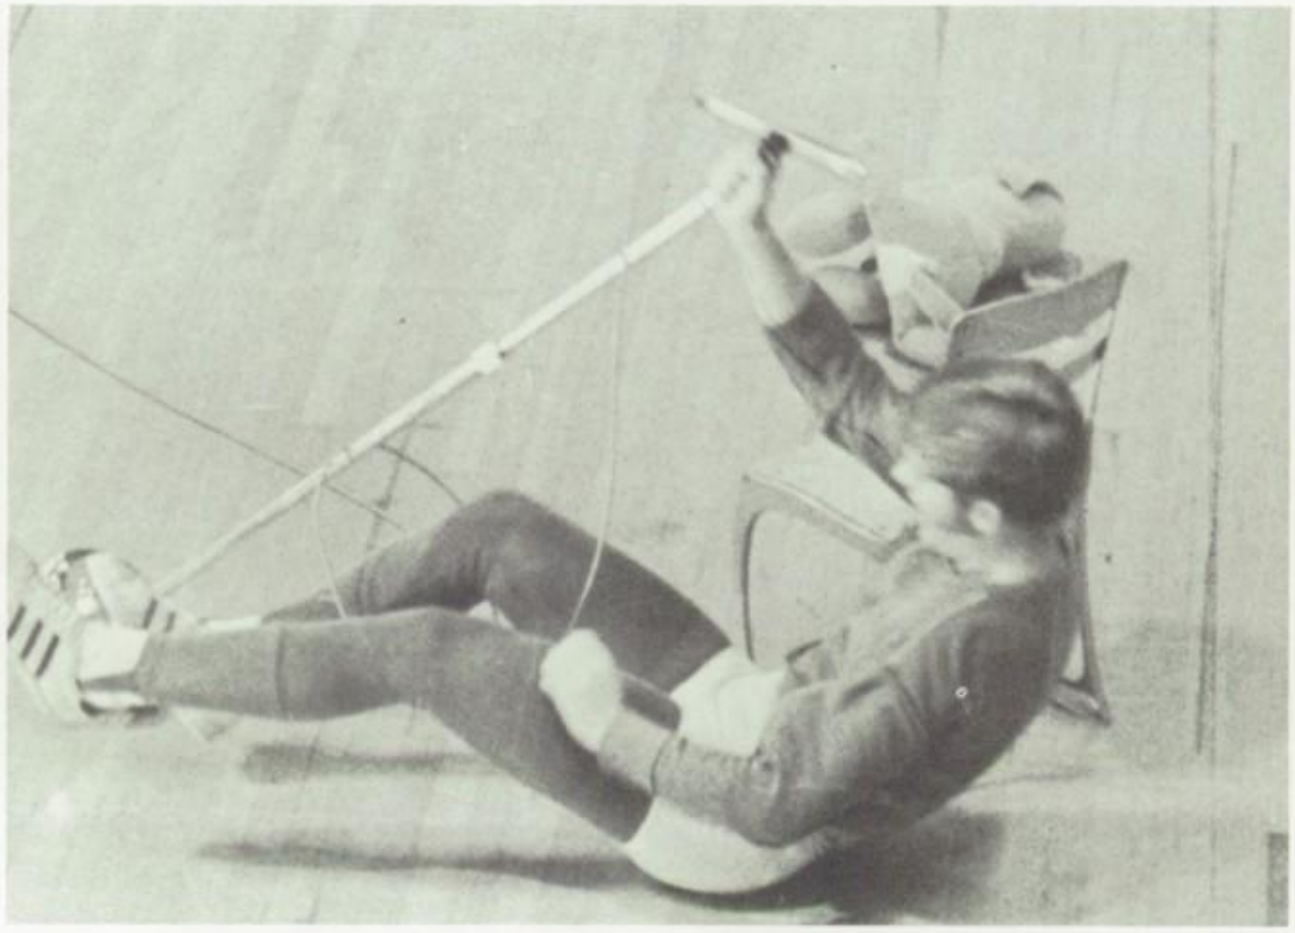
John Ashcroft spoke in the Inaugural Assembly.



In the Hi Vike Assembly, Mark Nelson illustrated exercises as "Wayne Lalane."

Marianna Blount opened the Talent Assembly.

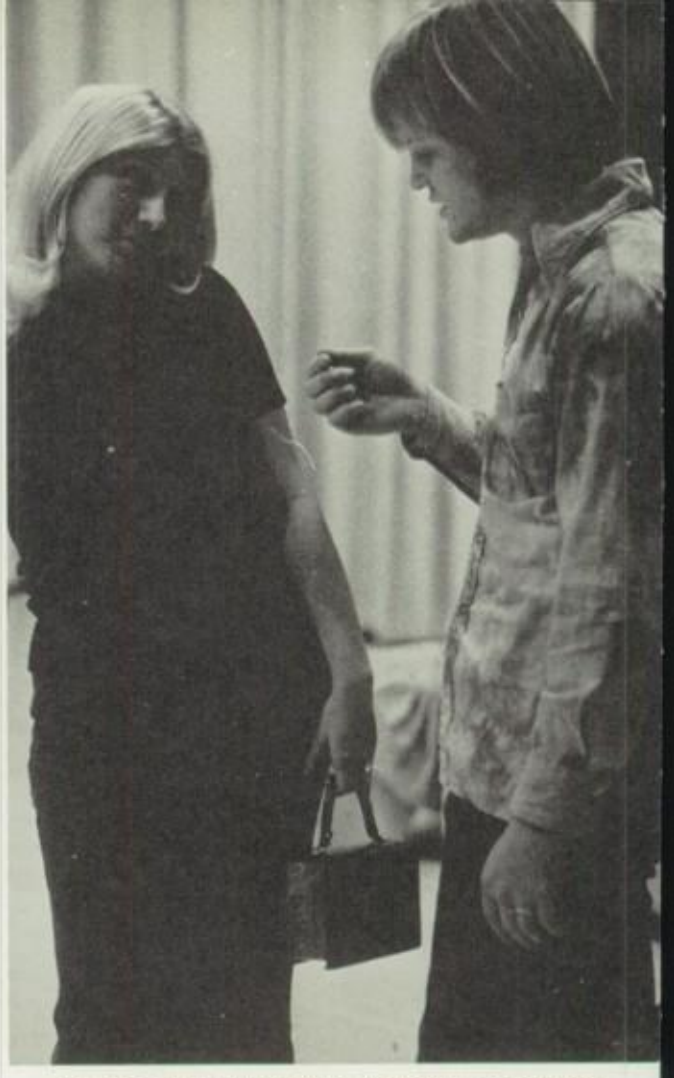
"Foil 'em Day," "Boot 'em Day," and "Over-all Spirit Day" were activities in "Foil the Falcons," this year's Spirit Week.

On "Foil 'em Day," students wore foil in various forms; boots and over-alls were seen in enormous numbers on students who showed their school spirit on the other spirit days.

Assemblies served as informative and entertaining events for the student body. In contributing to the planning and production of assemblies, different students were given the opportunity to participate in presenting programs to the school.

As well as the traditional assemblies, Parkview also hosted the Spurrlows; John Ashcroft, state auditor, who was the featured speaker in the Inaugural assembly; Sophie Wibaux and Bert Houle, who performed mimes and pantomimes, and Eddie Cole, who performed various stunts on the trampoline.

Billy had an attentive audience when he told about the wonderful life in Atlantic City.



Janet and Paul worked on dialogue and actions.

Actors displayed many emotions as they waited to go on stage.

The girls listened wistfully as Lucille told about the pleasures of settling down with one beau.

Sue was a reserved person, but she loved to dance, even if it was with Nanette's friends.

"A Lot of Work was involved and that's why it was such a success," commented Melanie Ireland, the student director, about the musical No, No Nanette.

The show, with its elaborate choreography and large cast was generally considered a smash hit. Over 100 students were involved in the production. The cast had the help of Mike Hamilton in planning the dances.

The plot of the story deals with the problems of Jimmy Smith, a millionaire who wants to use his money to spread happiness. He helps girls with their problems, but worries that his wife will find out and get the wrong impression.

Jimmy told Nanette he wanted her to be happy.

Nanette and Tom argued because she wanted to find excitement, but Tom wanted her to settle down.

Backstage activities included applying make-up.

Stage crew duties included lighting and sound.

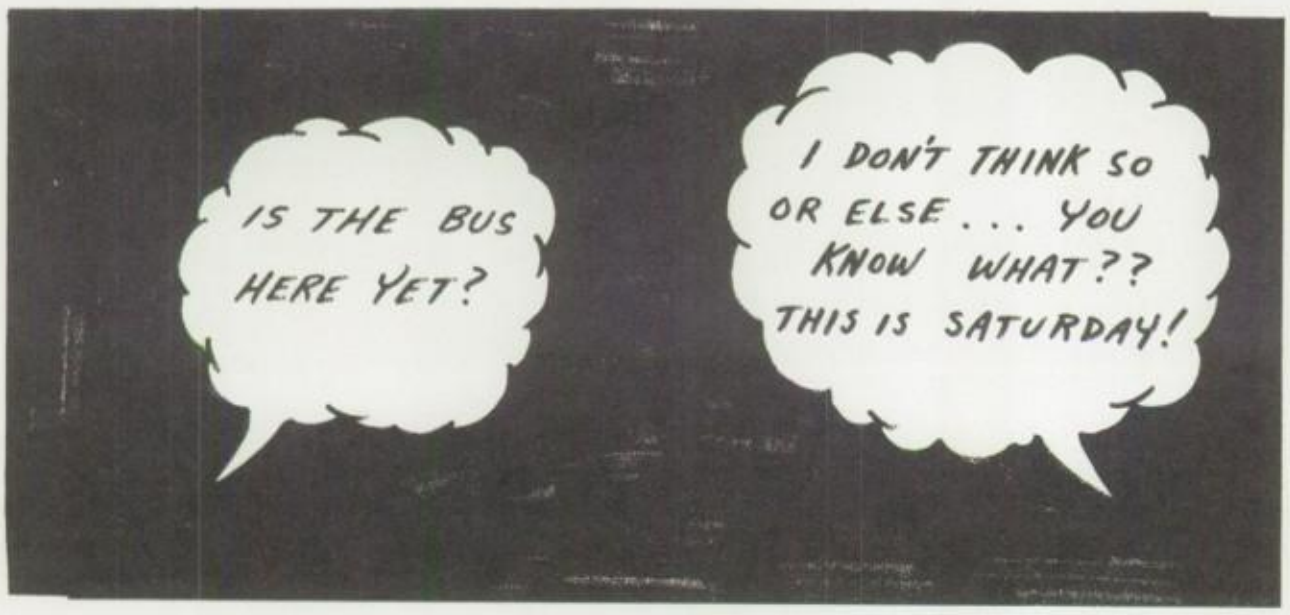
For several, bicycles proved to be an economical and safe means of getting to school.



Unicycles were also economical for transport.

Due to the effects of Daylight Savings Time, Parkview students arrived at a school illuminated against a dark horizon.

Most students preferred to keep their warm coats with them instead of neatly stashed in lockers.

Mittens and mufflers became fashionable and miniskits were left hanging in closets in favor of wool slacks as the 68° or less classroom temperatures provided their own crises at Parkview.

The energy crisis became a reality in mid-January with students arriving in darkness to a building with frosty windows, chilly rooms, and colder-yet halls.

Students had to grope their way to school under the not-quite dawn sky with streets illuminated by fuzzy street lights and flickering neon signs as the usual early hour came unusually early because of Daylight Savings Time.

The problem of no gas or no money for gas was overcome by the energetic who pedalled to school on growing-in-popularity bicycles.

The Board of Education members assembled at their monthly meeting.

Dr. J. E. Kuklenski, and Mrs. Mildred Henry discuss plans for the year.

"A Four-day Week has been discussed, but the Missouri statutes say school will be in session six hours a day, 174 hours a year, and a change of this schedule will not come from our board of education but will have to come from Jefferson City." stated Superintendent J. E. Kuklenski.

An optimistic attitude toward the energy crisis and a concern for the intellectual, physical, and social needs of the student were the main goals of Dr. Kuklenski and the Board of Education members.

Many changes were made by the board to benefit the student. At its July meeting, authorization was given for the establishment of volleyball, basketball, and track competition for girls. Specified course credits totaling a minimum of 20 units are the new requirements for graduation instead of the regular 17 units. Designed to give more individualized instruction, the measure will go into effect July 1, 1974.

Dr. Kuklenski and the board planned for the educational welfare of the student and in doing so achieved high educational standards for the district.

Dr. Kuklenski checked the agenda for the meeting.

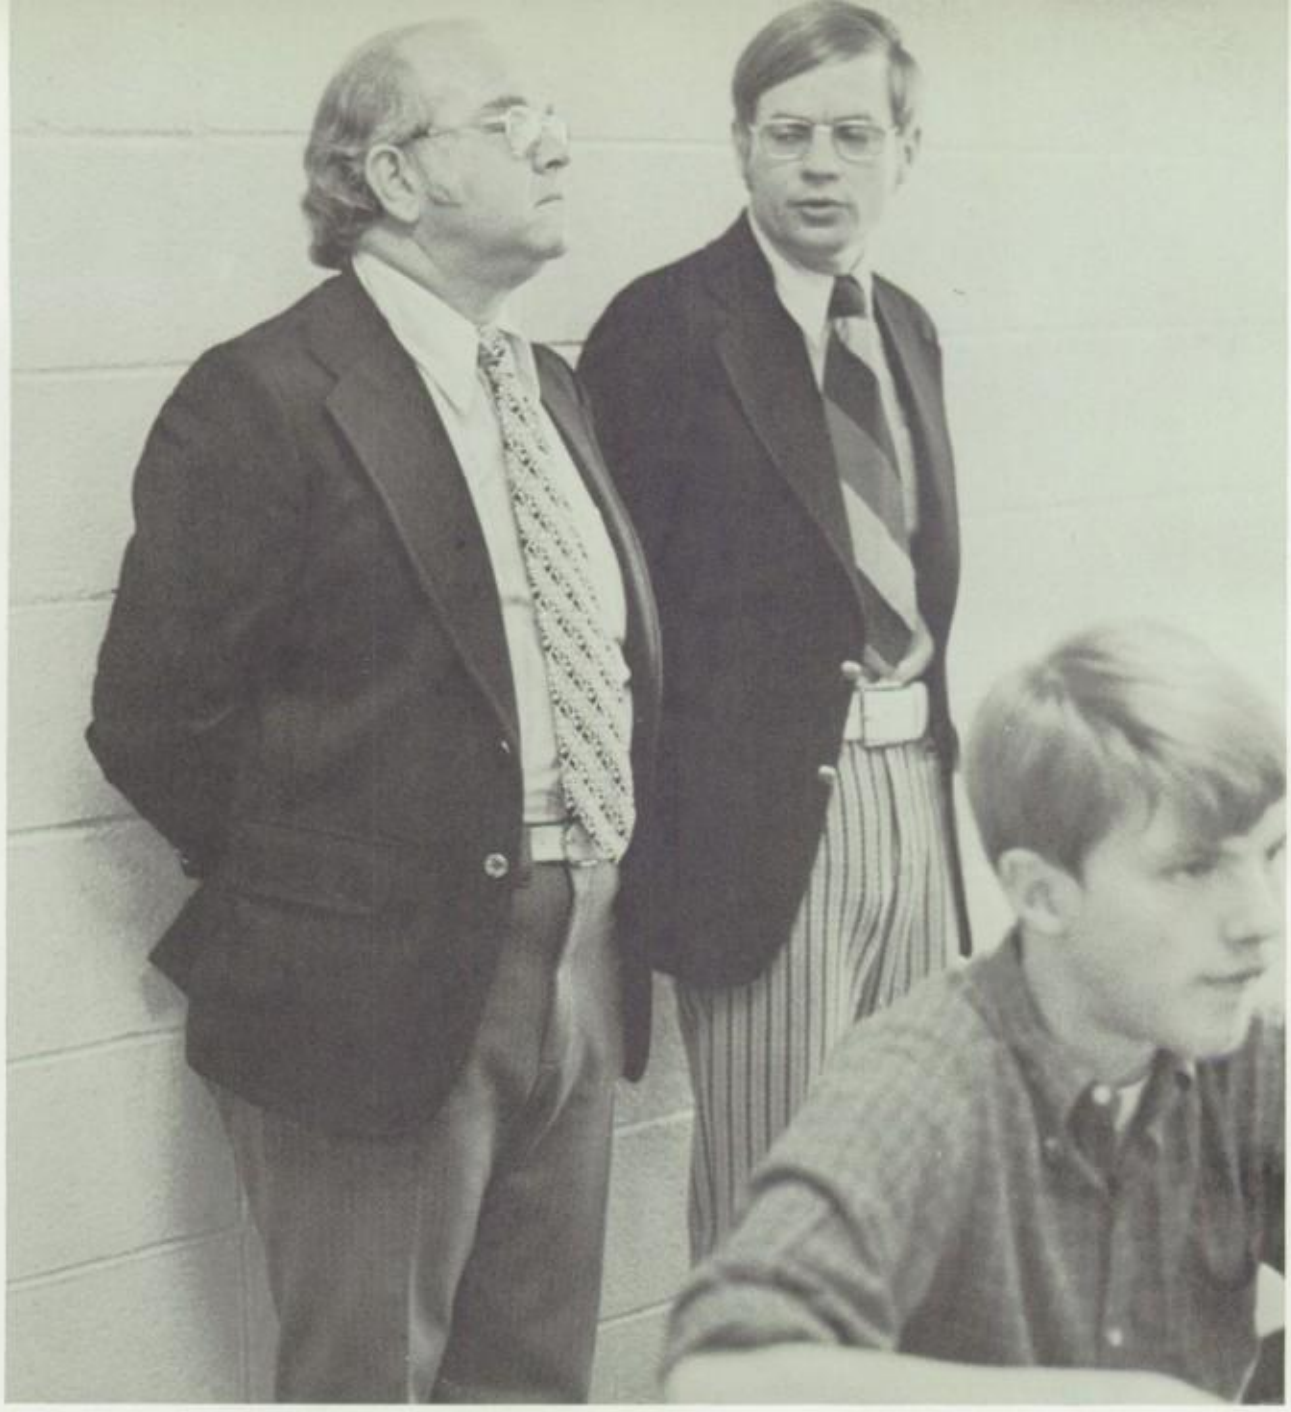
"In-depth studies of the changes are the goals of the administrators," commented Mr. Larry Folkins, director of secondary education in the Springfield public schools. Administrators also try to support clubs, games, and other school activities, according to Mr. Folkins.

"Changes in student involvement, such as girls' competitive sports, bring about new attitudes and behavior," stated Mr. John Sweeney, deputy superintendent. "Not only are we concerned with the students of today, but also with the students who will be here twelve years from now."

Mr. Larry Folkins, director of secondary education in the Springfield public schools, listened to suggestions.

Mr. Folkins and Mr. John Sweeney, deputy superintendent, discussed school life at Parkview.

Mr. Sweeney kept in touch with the school.

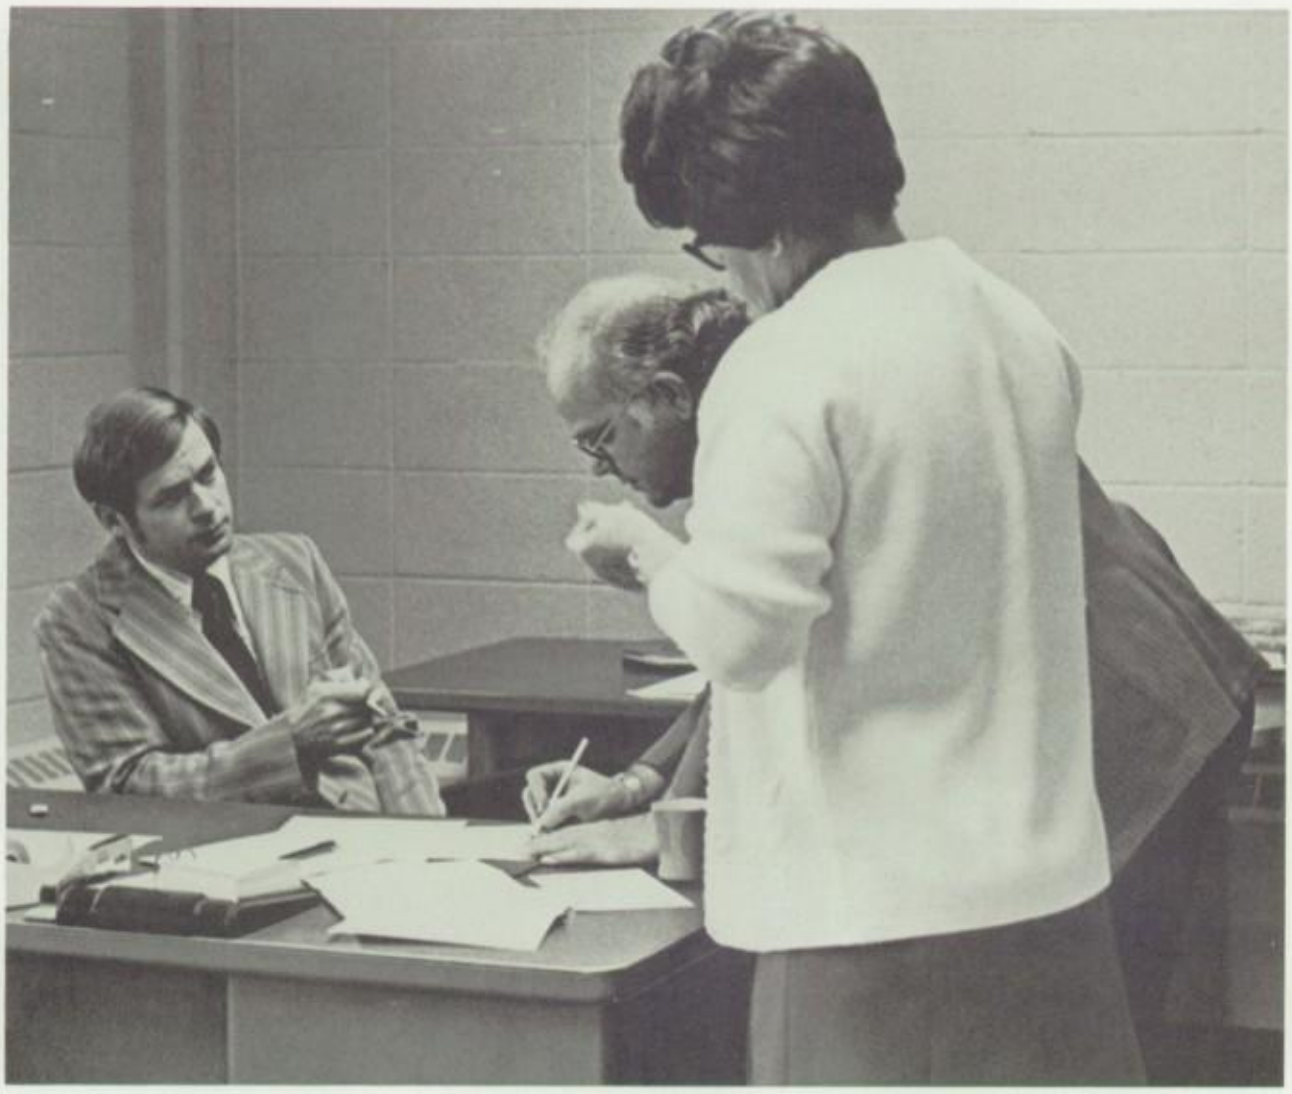


Mr. Fred Balden and Mr. Craig Sobotka observed the cafeteria during lunch hour.

"I Can't Believe the difference from one year to another in the attitudes and enthusiasm of the students," commented Mr. Fred Balden, Parkview principal. "We're having a terrific year."

Mr. Balden, having served as teacher, counselor, dean of boys, and assistant principal, was in his ninth year as the head administrator and could speak with some authority on the changes through the years.

Helping Mr. Balden as assistant principal was Mr. Craig Sobotka in his third year in the post. Not only did the administrators devote the school day to guidance and supervision, but the busy schedule of night activities demanded a great deal of after-hours work.



Mr. Sobotka, Mr. Balden, and Mrs. Charlene Wollard checked over school business.

valuable aid for students in scheduling classes and offering guidance throughout the year.

Assigned alphabetically to the same counselors as in past years, students could turn to their counselors as a friend or an adviser.

Especially valuable to seniors, counselors opened new doors by helping in choosing a college or vocation.

While helping with personal problems as well as with school problems, Mrs. Betty Lee Dunham, administrative assistant for girls, and Mr. Ralph Lairmore, administrative assistant for boys, dealt with students on an individual basis to develop a close relationship.

The Parent-Teachers Association and students worked alongside each other toward the mutual goal of increasing greater understanding and of expressing different views.

Discussing school life with parents was among the duties of Miss Lucille Dugan.

"The New Reading lab was a great idea because many people cannot read well and understand what they're reading. As a result of the lab, I have improved in my reading ability," commented Janet Culton, freshman.

Freshmen were able to improve their reading skills this year through the use of a new reading lab designed to aid the individual student. One quarter of their work was devoted to the lab and the other three quarters to regular classroom work including composition, literature, and the grammar.

An introduction to world literature, including Julius Caesar and Antigone, broadened the literary background and interests of many sophomores. The ideas and principles of advertising were studied in a special unit on persuasion. Composition and a review of grammar, usage, and reading skills aided sophomores in a further development of their basic skills.

Juniors focused their attention on a study of American literature by thematic arrangement including examining inner struggles, observing human frailties, crying out for justice, celebrating independent spirit, and probing values.

"A Variety of senior English courses gives the student a chance to take a course more suited to him," commented Joe Thompson, senior.

The broad selection of electives prepared seniors for college and offered additional assistance in areas requiring a greater proficiency.

English IVL focused on world literature, while English IVC studied both literature and communication skills. British Masterpieces, Advanced Composition, and Word Study provided further study in particular areas of interest.

In addition to the basic curriculum, a wide variety of supplementary materials were available on all levels.

The journalism classes were involved with many other parts of the media besides newspaper work. They worked on a yearbook, on a slide show, with photography, radio, and television.

This year was also a first for a new literary paper. It involved poetry, essays, and short stories. This paper gave the entire student body a chance to express themselves through their writing.

"German Is growing in popularity in the United States and I am glad that this year it was offered at Parkview," said senior Susan Walstrand.

German was offered for the first time at Parkview this year. Basic grammar and simple readings such as dialogues were the main objectives. Newsreels of the country, study of customs and traditions, and a diary of activities during Christmas were a few of the class activities.

French classes this year not only tried to become acquainted with the French language, but also with the French people through pen pals. First-year French students learned to carry on conversations in French; students taking second-year French learned phonetics to help in pronunciation. Cultural aspects of French life are emphasized through dialogues in the text.

Roman History and adventures in Latin literature were two of the objectives of second-year Latin. Latin I studied the fundamentals of the language and mythology of both Greece and Rome. Several Latin students of this year and past years took a trip to Rome and Pompeii through the Christmas vacation.

Spanish classes this year not only studied grammar, but also the culture and the geography of Spain and South American countries. Spanish III, IV, and V did readings from famous Spanish writers. A special activity for Spanish IV and V was to write a newspaper in Spanish.

"Working in pottery really lets your mind run away in creativity," stated Jeanne Waters about the new medium in the PHS art classes.

Art students explored the primitive as they let the wheel turn to make vases, bowls and other shapes.

"There were lots of mistakes," Mrs. Hopkins commented. "The students didn't realize how primitive times were until we started mixing chemicals used in pottery and ceramics."

All Parkview students were given the opportunity to view the skills in an art display set up in the student center.

Brent Stettner, Jay Pearsley, and Mary Ann Hardin practiced the art of brayer painting.

In December, the music and dramatics classes combined their efforts in presenting the musical No No Nanette. Everyone involved worked hard, trying to put out the best musical ever, and the performance was well received by the audience.

Pop tests challenged world history students

"History Isn't just interesting — sometimes it's even fun!" exclaimed freshman Scarlett Roper.

Although enthusiasm varied from person to person, social studies at Parkview offered a wide selection of courses for students to follow.

Curriculum changes gave freshmen American history for the first time as part of new credit requirements.

Other courses offered included world history, which gave students insight to development of world civilizations and a variety of electives and semester classes which included economics, contemporary issues, and geography.

Business education at Parkview not only gave insight to the theories and problems of business and economics with courses such as business law, business English, and business and consumer problems, but helped students develop practical business skills in classes such as typing, shorthand, secretarial practice, and basic business practices.

One of the changes to the department this year was the addition of the metric system to the curriculum. Math I and II, consisting of the basic fundamentals, were the only classes in which the metric system was taught.

Geometry, Algebra I and II, and math analysis were also offered to those interested in pursuing study in the advanced courses.

Participation in the School of the Ozarks Math Relays and the Southwest Missouri State University Relays also was relatively new to the department.

"I Can Fix Things myself," commented Randy Brown, "because the power mechanics class teaches me how to maintain a two-cycle engine which can be very helpful if you happen to be riding one and it breaks down. I don't have to worry about taking the cycle to a shop to get it fixed. I can do it myself."

Projects in industrial art courses such as metalwork, woodwork, and drafting filled the year for the students with useful results.

Two new courses were added for the first time this year. Home maintenance interested the girls and power mechanics challenged the boys.

Industrial art courses gave students a way to express their talents. It also taught good working habits as well as giving the opportunity of creating constructive useful projects.

An opportunity for students to gain additional training and work experience on jobs outside of school was the main goal of the cooperative occupational education program.

The program is designed for the student to spend one half-day in school. During this time, complementary skills and techniques are taught through classroom instruction by Mr. Jim Dunlop.

The rest of the day, the student works on the job. This valuable learning experience encourages the student to make the most of his talents and most important of all, prepares him for his future occupation.

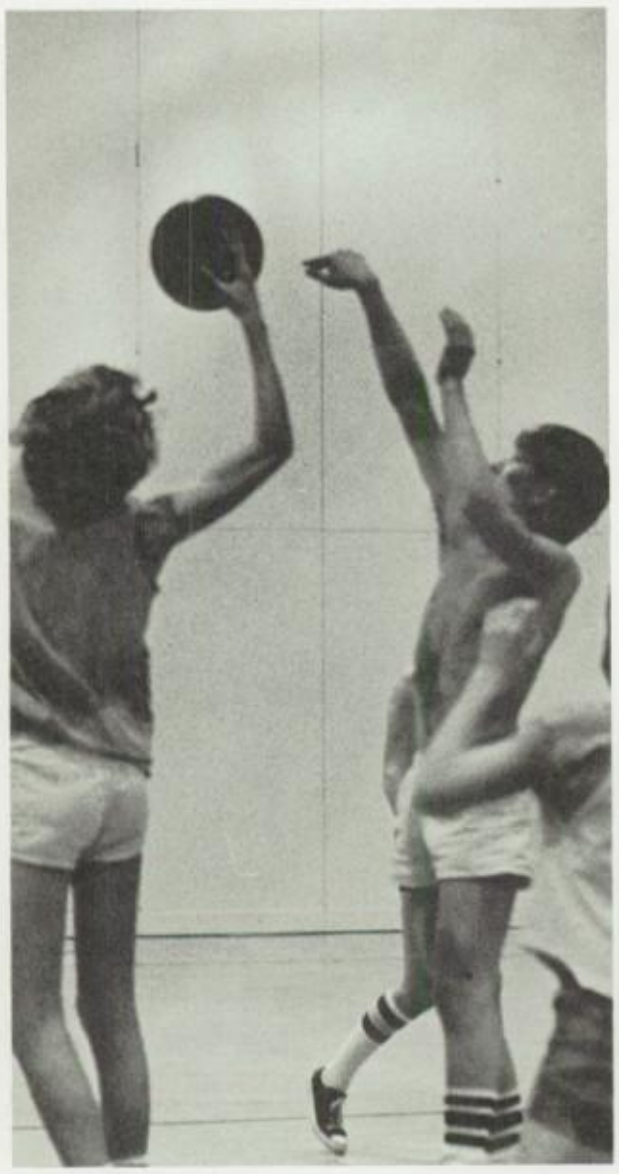
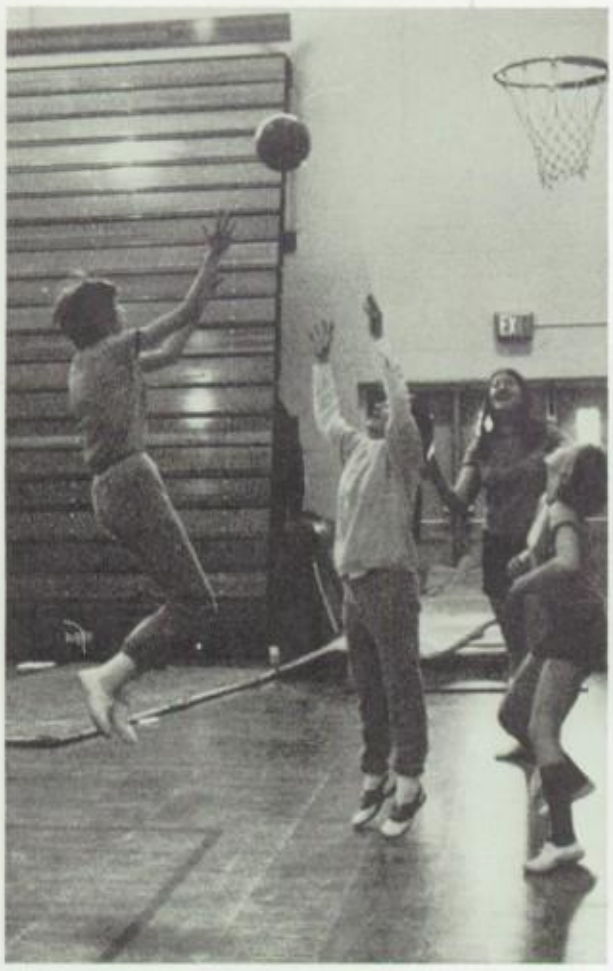
Richard Arnette awaited Gary Osredker's shot.



Freshman Steve Ludwigs pulled down a rebound.

Freshman Pete Fischer laid up an easy two points in Coach Clark's third hour PE class.



Debbie Evans shot over defender Tani Whorton.

Sophomores in Mrs. Carden's third hour gym class had difficulty in bringing down a rebound.

Freshman Patrice Lockhart gathered momentum during gymnastics as she cleared the vaulting bar.

For the First Time in the public schools, health was offered on both the freshman and junior levels. Incoming ninth graders were required to take the course because of a new ruling, and the present juniors were taking health as it has been offered in the past.

One of the more radical changes in the physical education classes was the use of the Universal Gym. This new piece of equipment was used by girls PE classes to improve figures and muscle coordination. The boys used the machine for weight lifting and strength improvement. Besides the Universal Gym, both classes participated in the usual units of basketball, volleyball, and gymnastics.

"I'll Not Forget the first time I tried parallel parking," said Phyllis Baucom. "I was so nervous that I bumped into the 'No Parking' sign that just happened to be there."

Although drivers' education is aimed at teaching the basic skills of driving and automobile safety, those embarrassing moments do happen.

This year several innovations were made in the drivers' education curriculum. Among them was a switch from coed to separate classes for males and females due to the changes in the physical education department.

Sophomores gained experience through supervised on-the-street driving, first aid studies, and the drivo-trainer units.

Drivo-Trainer Units proved useful in assimilating actual driving experiences.

Aided by Mr. Mabary, sophomore Lisa Tillman practiced driving in the snow.

Mr. Hutsell demonstrated the uses of the drivo-trainer units.

Warren Stallings and Mark Herndon demonstrated the art of making a banana cream pie.

"Bachelor Living not only taught us useful things such as making Midnight Devil's Food cake with White Mountain-top frosting, but it also gave us an insight into living on our own," said senior James Starnes.

The home economics department found radical changes in its curriculum this year. For the first time a Bachelor Living class was offered. It wasn't an unusual sight in the department to find the halfback of the football team demonstrating how to make doughnuts.

Besides the new male class, the department also offered courses teaching the basic skills of cooking, sewing, interior decorating, and child care.

Lenna Cargill made candles in interior decorating.

Child care parties meant many hilarious experiences.

"Vo Tech Prepares you for future jobs, and the students get the on-the-job training which gets them jobs almost immediately after completing the program," stated Jeff Hughes.

Preparing students to go forth in the world and contribute to the nation's industry and economy is the aim and purpose for the vocational-technical program in the Springfield Public School system.

Students who are involved in the Vo-Tech program, commute to the Willard Graft Vo-Tech Center, for half of the school day. The students acquire the skill and knowledge of the occupation which might be work they would like to do the rest of their lives.

Classes are offered in various fields of job opportunities for both male and female students.

Printing, horticulture, and woodwork have for many years been fields which are associated mainly with males. However, there are some Parkview girls infiltrating these courses this year.

Center Mike Stewart got ready to snap the ball to quarterback Bart Broyles.

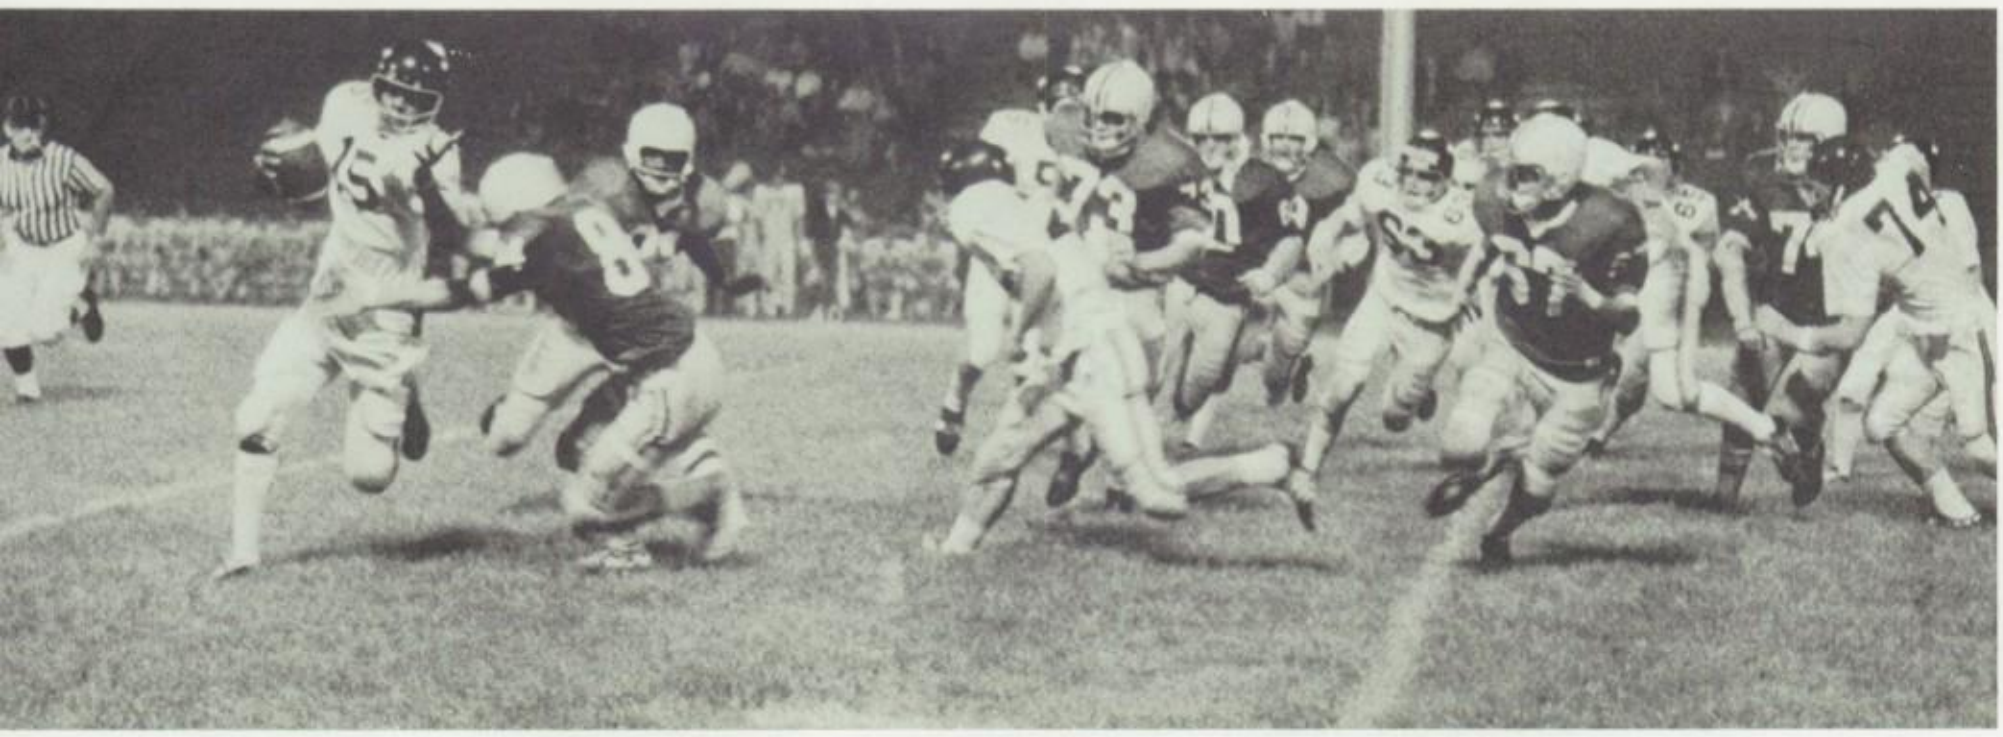
"Inexperience Was the team's main fault, as most of our players were juniors and sophomores," stated Coach Sonny Stringer in summary of the Vikings' season.

Parkview's varsity football squad suffered a disappointing season, finishing with a 2-8 record and a three-way tie for fifth in the Ozark Conference.

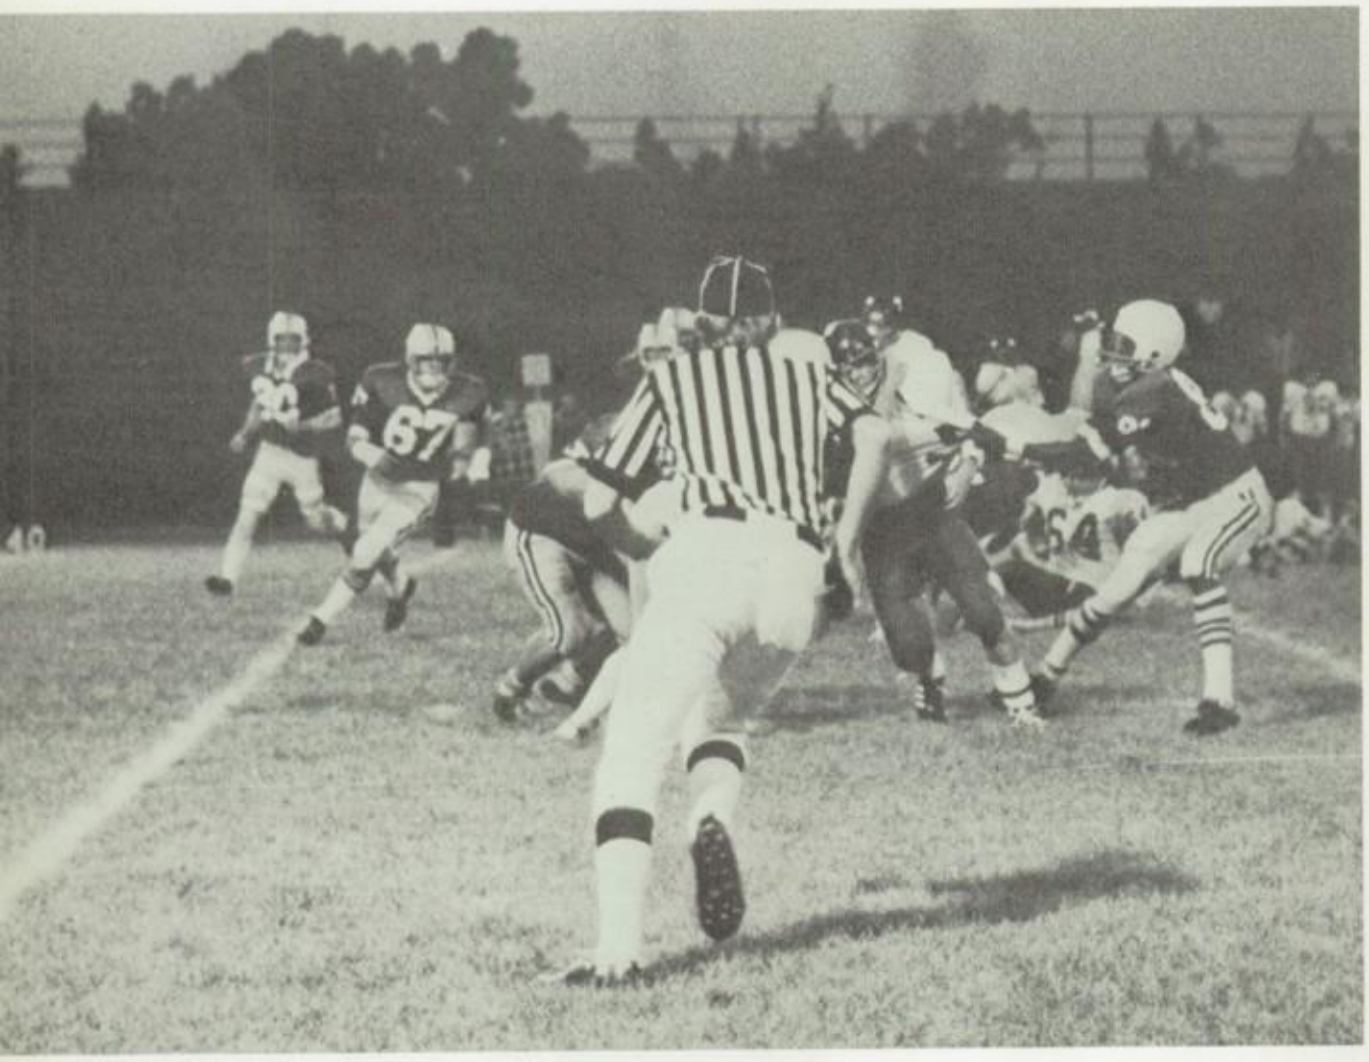
There were only seven seniors on the team and the top ground gainers were both underclassmen.

The junior varsity fared a little better, winding up with a 3-5 record. They were beaten by more than five points only once, and the teams they played had consisted of mostly juniors.

The freshmen ended their season with a 2-3-1 mark and a lot of hope for future achievement.



Viking defense gave lateral pursuit to the opposing ball carrier.



When conventional methods failed Vikings had to do whatever necessary to bring down their man.

Vikings Posted a 10-11 record for the basketball season and finished fourth in the Buffalo tournament and second in the Glendale Holiday meet.

Against conference foes, Parkview swept the series with Central, lost to Parkwood and Memorial of Joplin, and split with the other city schools.

The junior varsity closed the season with a 14-3 mark and third place in the city tournament. The freshmen climaxed their season by capturing the championship in the all-city tourney.

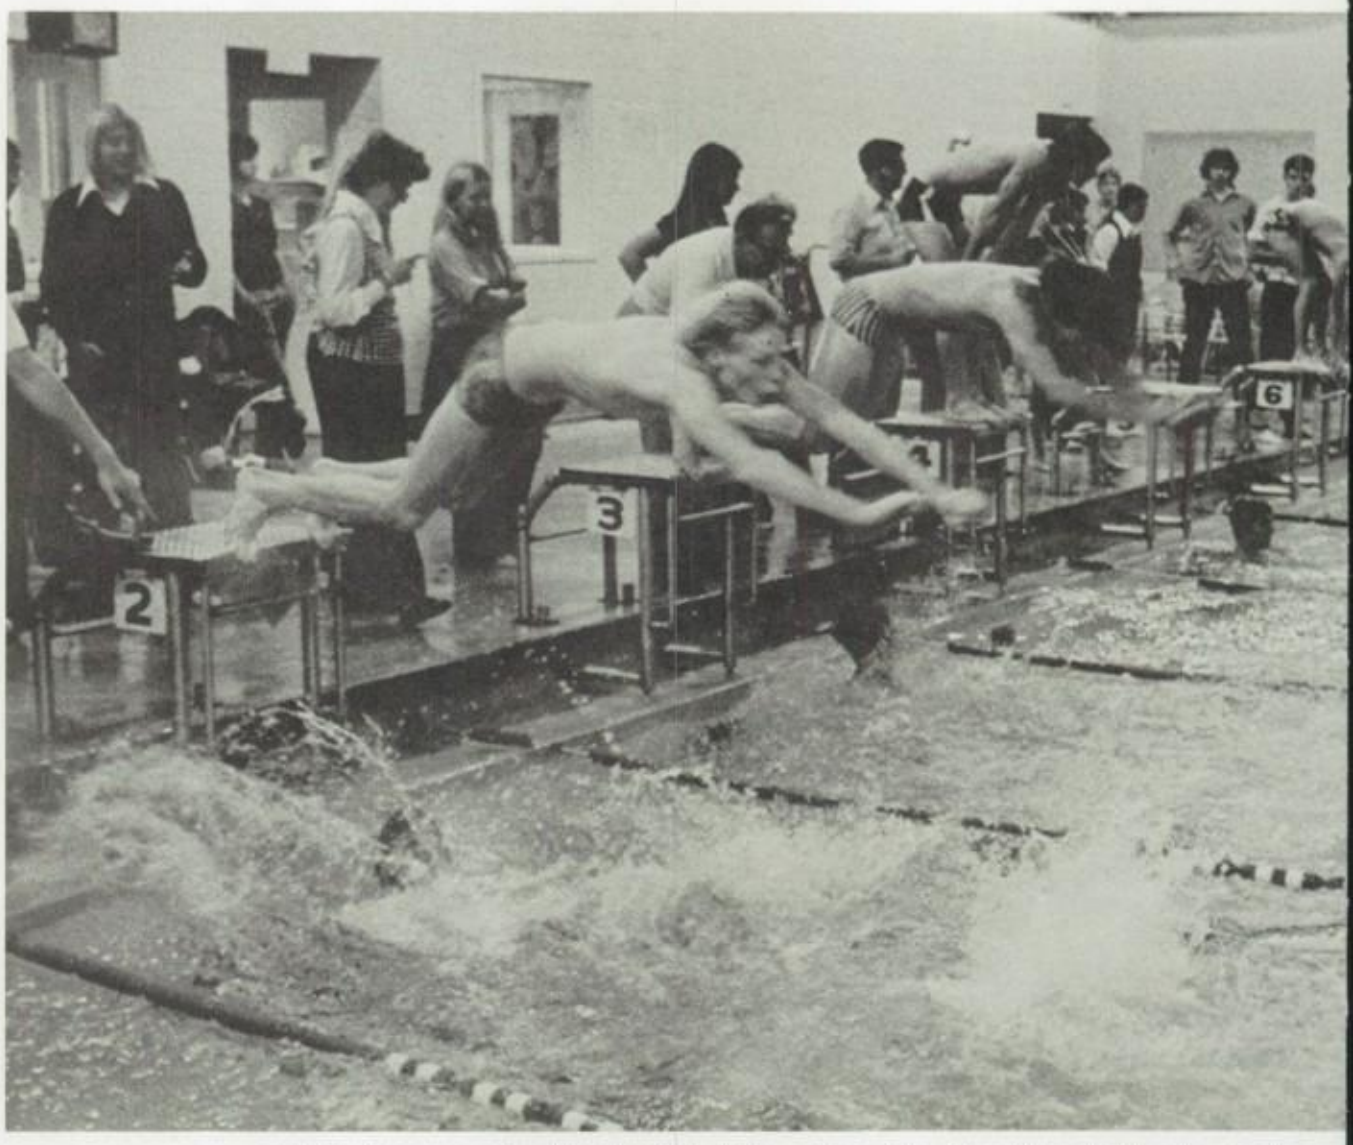
increased success in their second season of varsity swimming, as they compiled a 6-1 dual meet record in addition to taking first in the Second Annual All-City meet.

Viking achievements began with the first meet of the season as Parkview swept seven of eleven events to take the First Annual All-City Relay Meet. The tankers proceeded to take second in a quadrangular with Kansas City Park Hill, Van Horn, and Glendale.

The lone triangular meet of the season saw Parkview take second, with district-leading Columbia Hickman winning first and Glendale, third.

In addition to regular season honors, Parkview sent four swimmers and a diver to the state meet in Columbia. Chris Dannenmaier qualified fifth in the 100-yard butterfly; Shane Sutcliffe, sixth in diving; and the 400-yard freestyle relay of Eric Dannenmaier, Phil Page, Scott Turner, and Chris Dannenmaier qualified fifth.

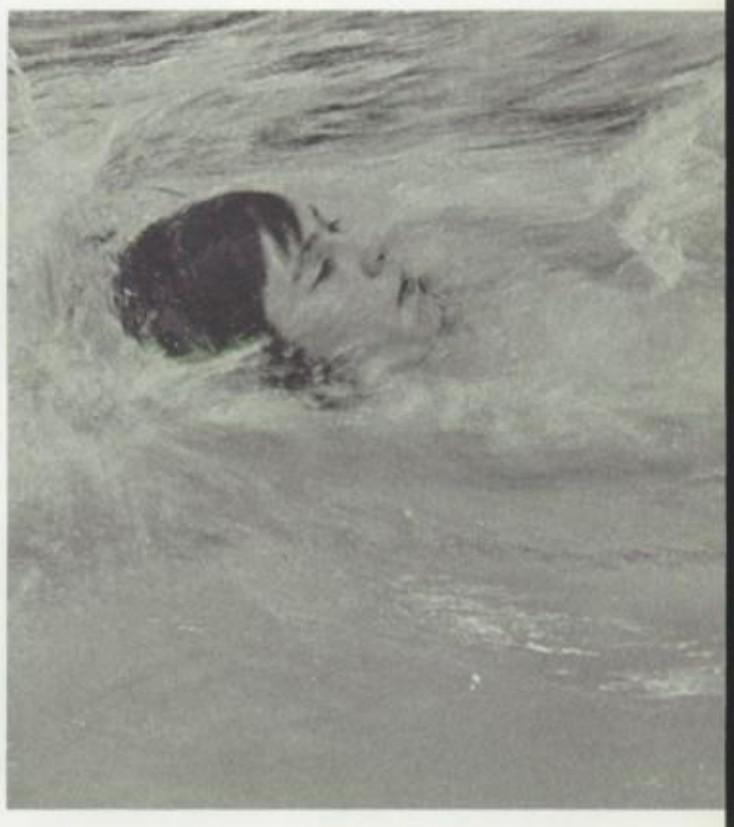


Pete Buckner swam the third lap of the 100-yard freestyle relay at the All-City relay meet.

Phillip Page was responsible for the second hundred yards on the state-qualifying 400-yard freestyle relay.

Jerry Rifenburg worked for a well-executed dive.

Russ Rogers swam the 50-yard butterfly leg of the 200-yard medley relay.



Jeff Brown worked hard at the 100-yard backstroke.

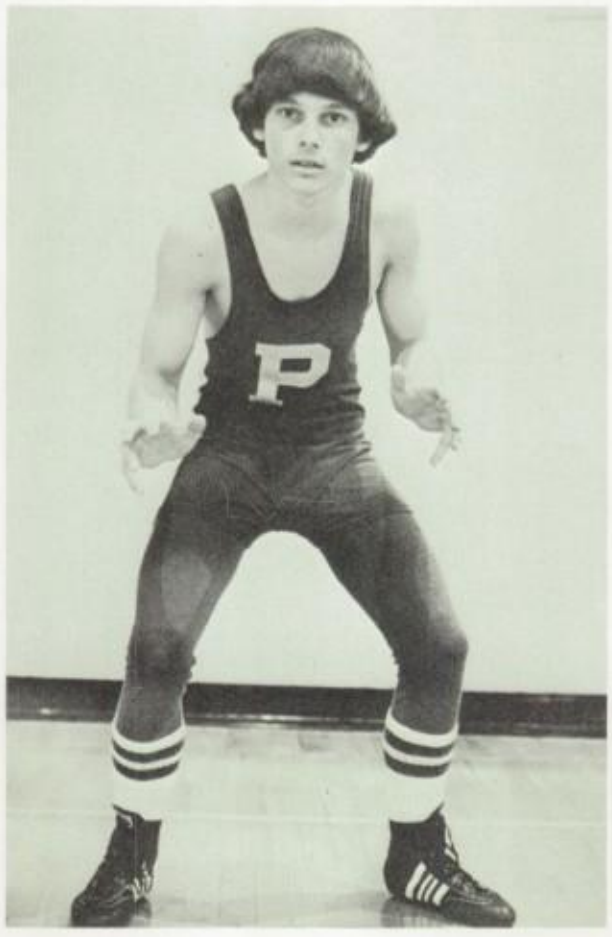
Wrestlers Climaxed

their season by qualifying four wrestlers for the 1974 Class AA State Wrestling Tournament at Forest Park Community College.

Wayne Schofield, Randy Heilman, Wil Twigg, and Bill Ray, by finishing first or second in the Regional meet, were competitors at State. The most successful Viking grappler was Wayne Schofield, who finished third in state competition.

Other wrestlers who competed successfully in post-season meets were Rick Ray and Tim McCann who won their respective divisions in the District Tournament.



Wayne Schofield won third in state Competition.

James Bonner struggled to keep his opponent.

Matmen Concluded

their regular season with a 10-2-2 record.

The Vikings got off to a quick start by defeating the Memorial Eagles, 48-21, then beat Rolla, 36-21, and Waynesville, 36-27. Parkview then dumped the Joplin Parkwood Bears, 35-15, at the wrestling assembly. In an assembly at Kickapoo, the Vikings beat the Chiefs, 36-15.

The grapplers then traveled to Joplin only to come in second to Parkwood in the Ozark Conference Tournament.

In a non-conference match, they slaughtered Sedalia, 55-9. The squad then returned to conference action, defeating Central, 36-19, and placed second in the Monett invitational.

The Vikings also trounced Hillcrest, 50-18, before Glendale scarred their perfect dual-meet record by tying them, 27-27.

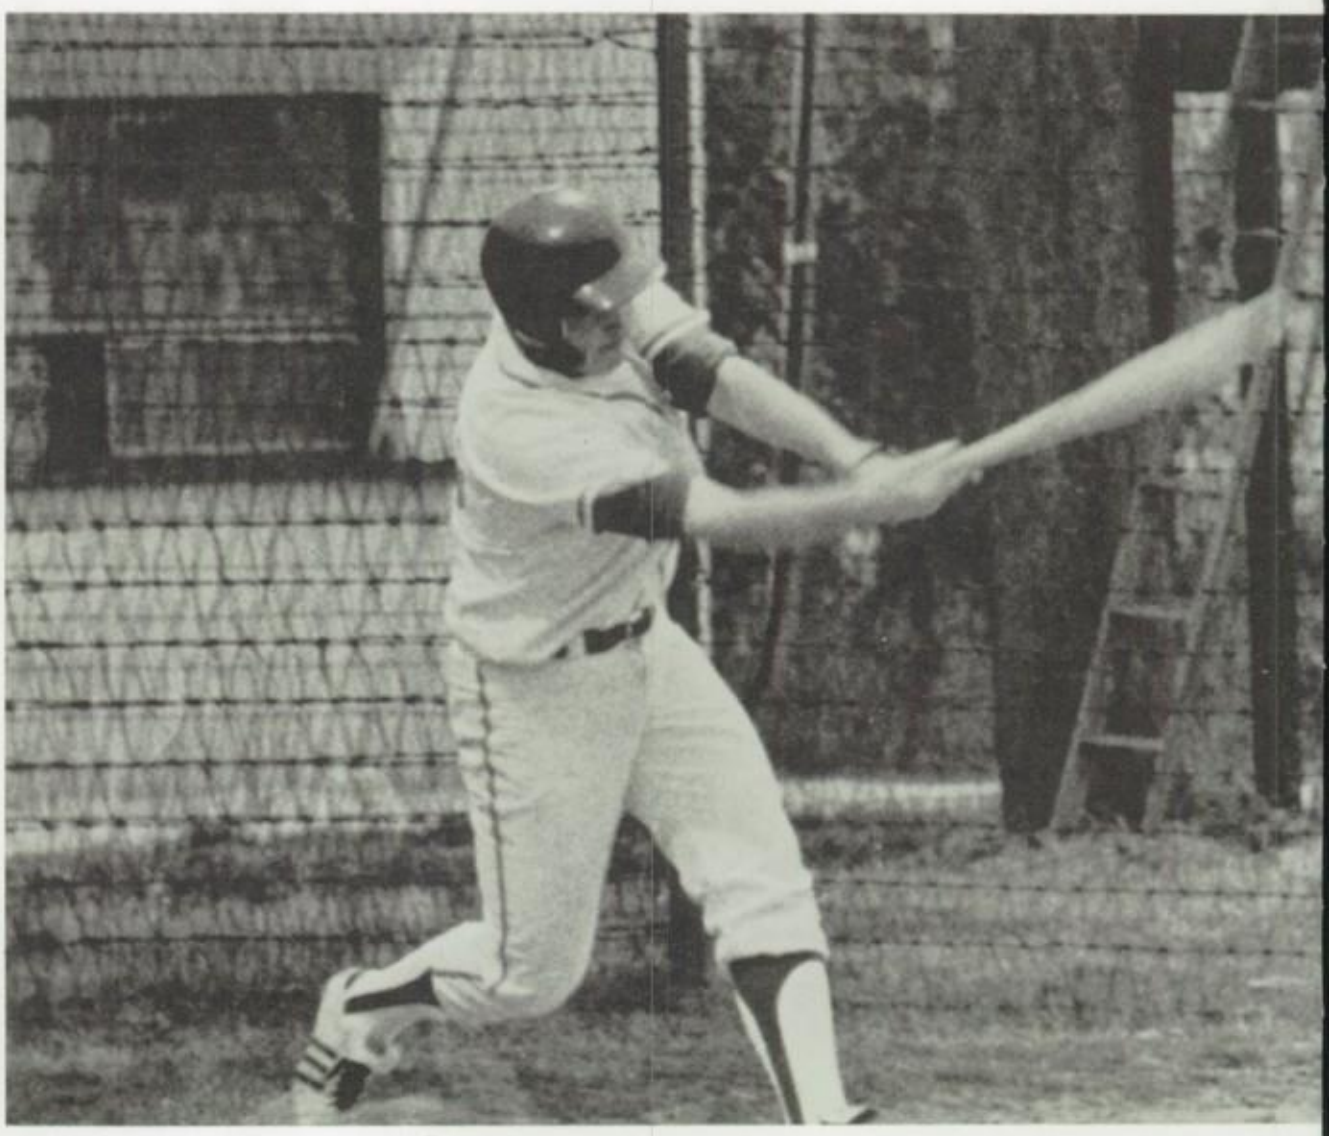
Parkview then suffered two consecutive losses, bowing to Monett, 31-24, and to Jefferson City Helias, 34-22. A tie with Jefferson City Senior, 25-25, ended the regular season.

"Parkview Showed strong in many positions in 1973," commented Kent Farrar, left-handed hurler for the team.

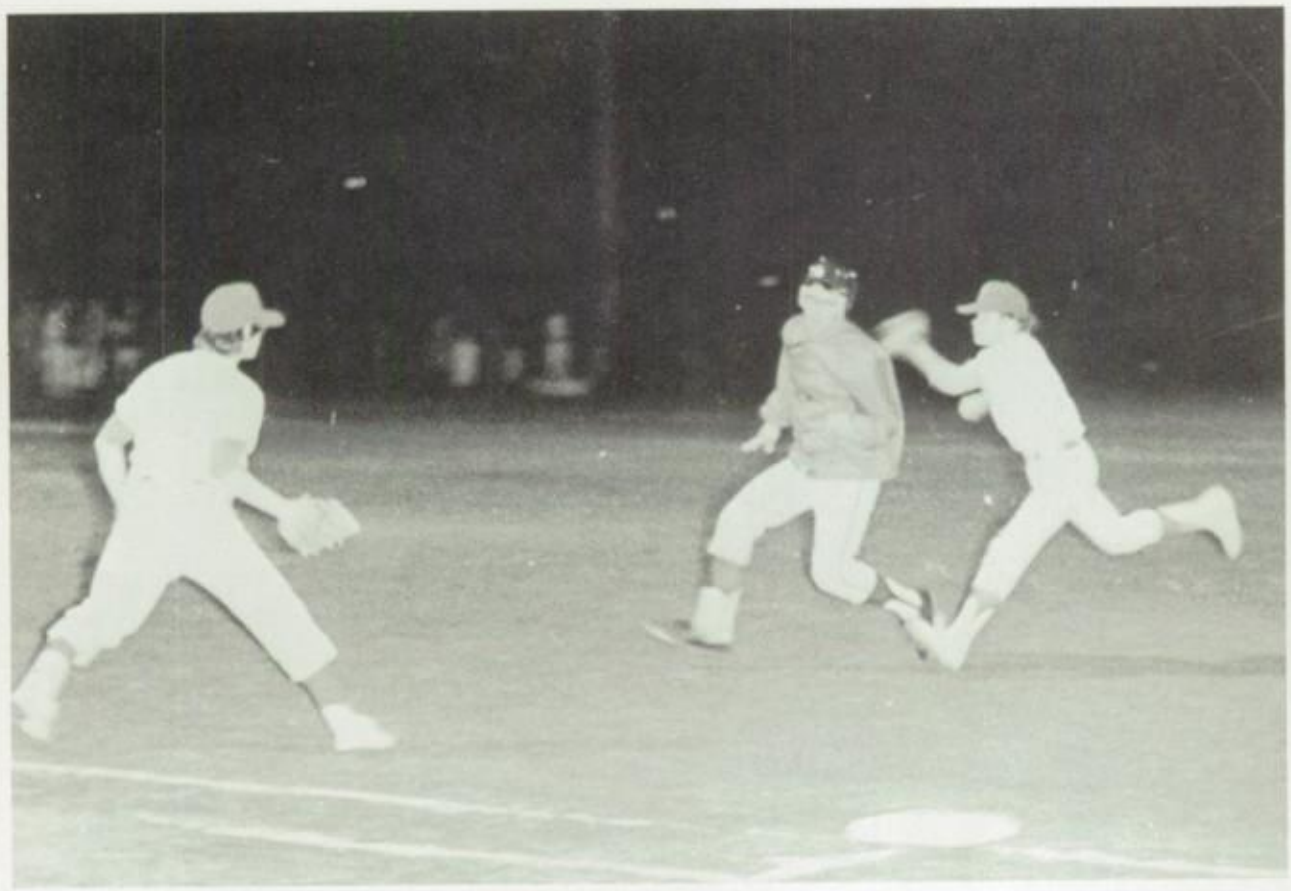
Second-baseman Joe Henry led the team in batting with a .388 average, with the overall team batting average .234. First-baseman Gus Henry received All-Conference, and Paul Shackleford, John Dunlop, and Joe Henry received Honorable Mention.

Coached by Dale Neth, the Vikings enjoyed a productive season, taking second place in conference and district play.

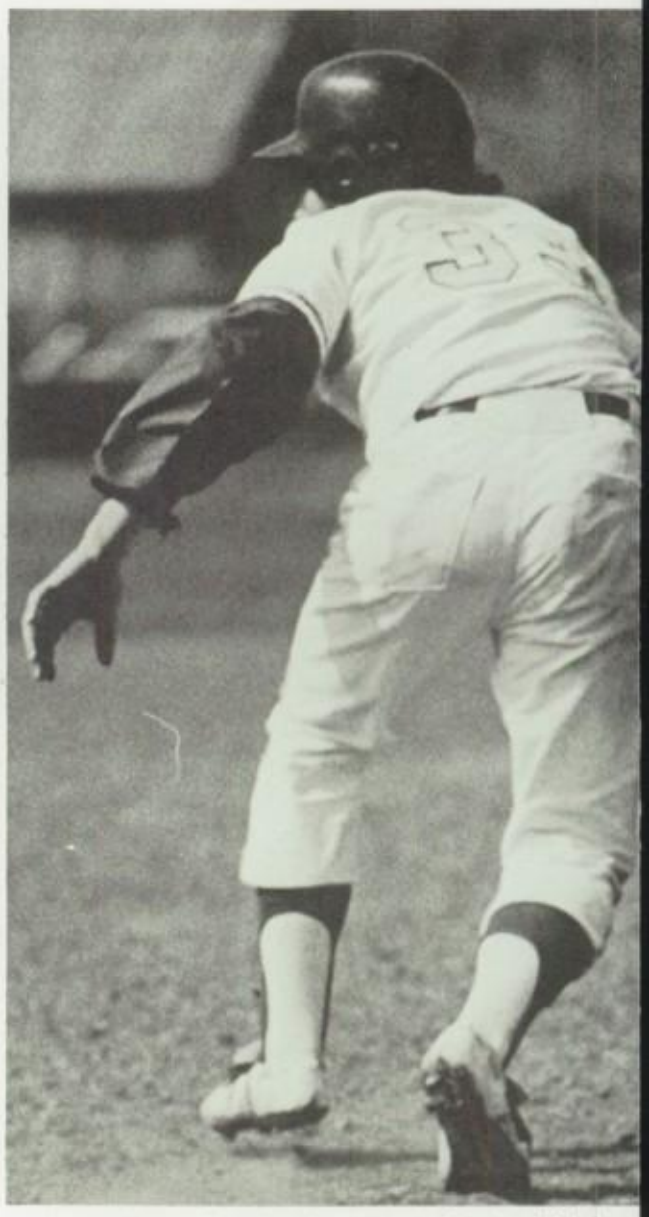
After a slow and soggy start, dropping their season opener to Hillcrest, the team got underway by winning their next four games. Aided by seven returning lettermen, the Vikings wrapped up their season with a 7-4 conference record.



A sinking curve fooled third-baseman John Dunlop as he swung for the ball.



Second baseman Joe Henry tagged out the runner as Kent Farrar covered first.



Senior Don Harris attempted to steal third.

First baseman Gus Henry beat out the play as he slid into second under an attempted tag.

Junior John Northrip attempted to clear the crossbar with the Fosbury Flop.

Senior Mike Doolittle cleared the bar easily.

Senior Eddie Ball strained to place in the SMS Relays.

Senior Mark Sims strived to break triple jump records.

"Our Team Was basically underclassmen who will be returning, with the exception of half a dozen senior athletes," commented Coach Richard Clark.

"Positions that we will have to refill this year are the mile and two mile with Bill Maples; the broad jumps and triple jumps with Mark Sims; the discus with Dan O'Leary; and the shotput with Bob Bayless.

"I evaluate the track season by our standing in the Conference track meet. Two of the most outstanding athletes were Mark Sims and Bill Maples. Through the season Mark received more points than any other team member. I think it was a fairly successful year in track events."

Mark Sims broke his own record in the district meet for a jump of 43 feet 9½ inches; the old record was 42 feet 10¾ inches.

Bill Maples set a new stadium, school and district record winning the two-mile run with 9:52 minutes, the old standard being 10:06.1 minutes.

Parkview sent seven of its tracksters to the State Tournament by racking up 32 points in the District Tournament. Qualifying legmen that traveled to Columbia, Missouri, were Bill Maples, Mark Sims, Dan O'Leary, Randy Nichols, David Wilson, John Northrip, and Bob Bayless.

Linksmen Compiled a record of 4-1 for the 1973 golf season and placed fourth in the district.

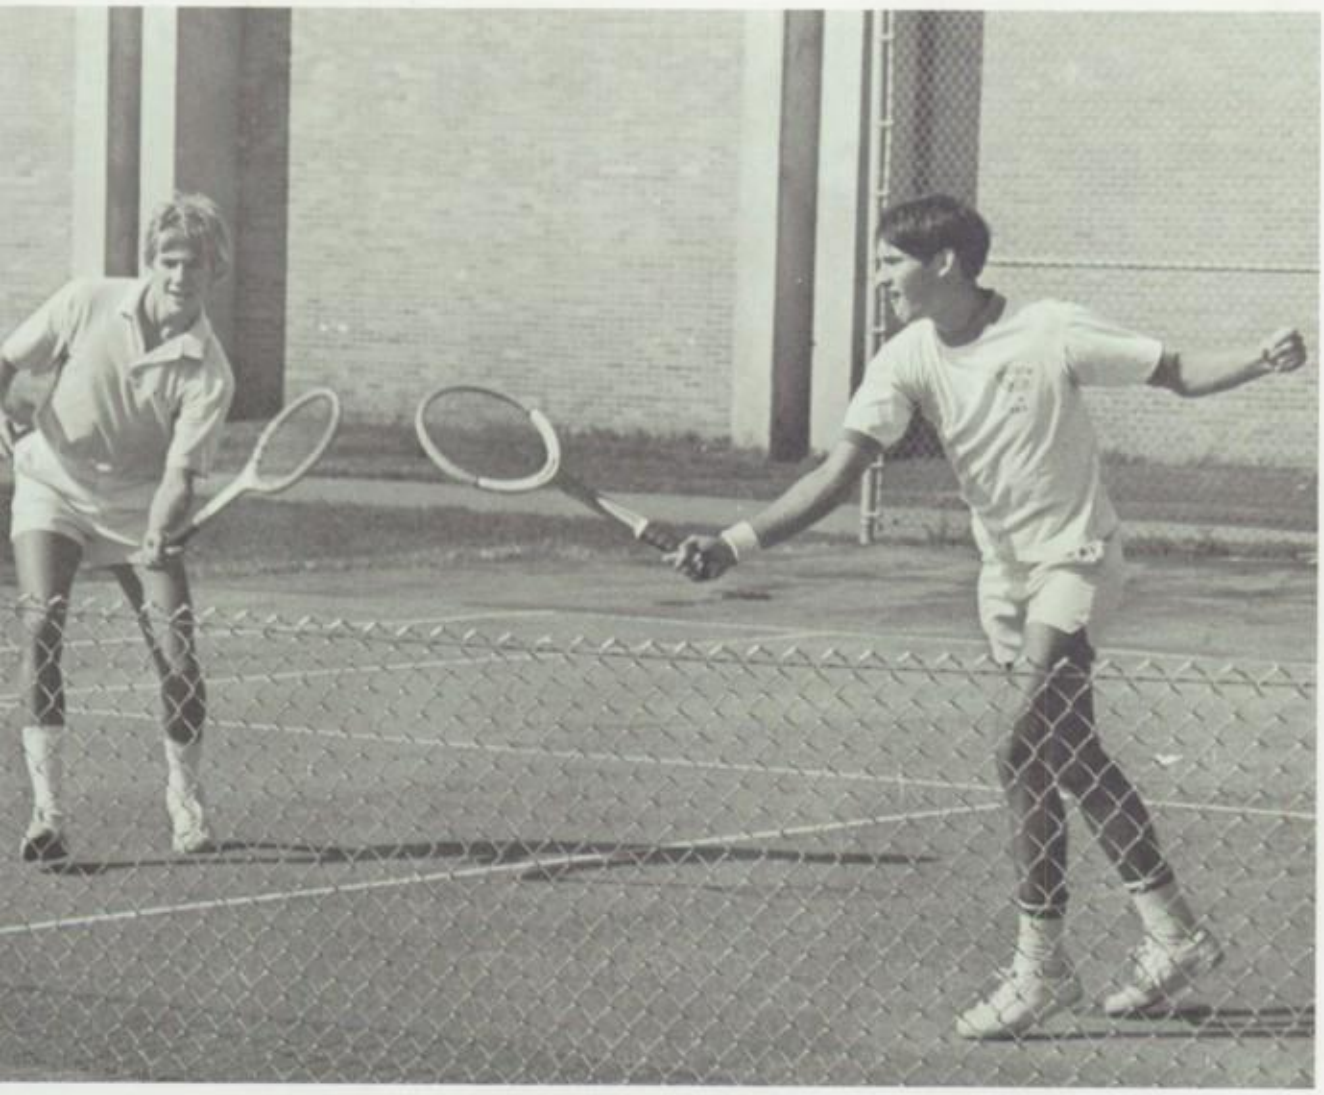
A team score of 318 in the district tournament placed Parkview behind Greenwood, Joplin, Parkwood, and Neosho.

The Vikings, paced through the season by Jay Pearsley, a junior, placed fourth in the Ozark Conference. The team of Tom Auner, John Billings, Ike Bollinger, and Pearsley ranked twelfth in a field of thirty teams in the SMSU Relays.

John Billings prepared to get out of light rough.

Tom Auner concentrated on his line as John Billings held the pin for the putt.

A determined Tom Auner was undaunted by a challenging lie at the Grandview course in conference play.



The state champion doubles' team of Steve Bennett and Keith Hickey worked for another win.

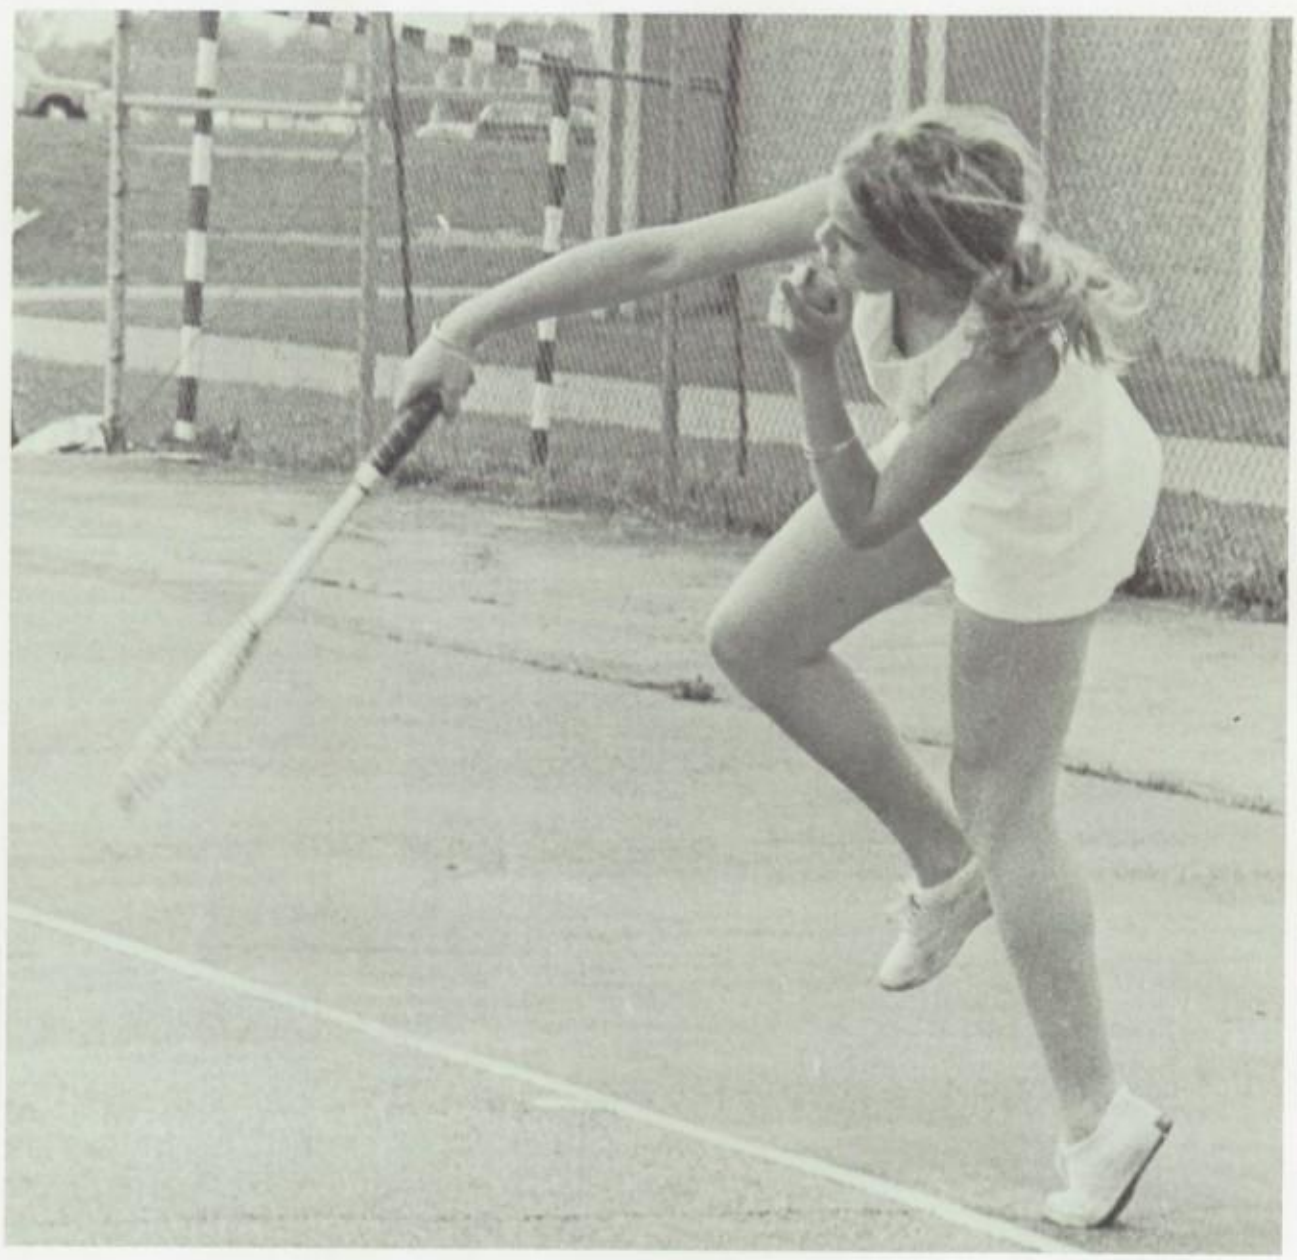
Tennis Ended Big last year as Parkview's doubles' team of Keith Hickey and Steve Bennett, the Vikings' lone state entry, brought home the first doubles' title Springfield had had in thirty-seven years.

Parkview became the state net champ in doubles' action as Hickey and Bennett swept Kansas City Pem-Day 6-3, 6-4.

Other highlights of the year included capturing the district doubles' title and the Ozark Conference crown for both singles and doubles.

The girls' team ended with a perfect 9-0 record. For the first time girls competed in the SMSU Relays and came home with the championship.

Steve Turner backhanded a return in Ozark play.



Sophomore netter Jodie Adams rocketed a serve to her opponent.

This was the year in which girls competitive sport really made its mark at Parkview. The Viking girls' basketball team had a remarkable season winning the Pink and White tournament, the All-City meet, and the Sparta Regional Tournament to qualify for the Girls' State Basketball tournament. In the state tourney, the girls made it all the way to the semi-finals, then were defeated by only one point by the present state champs, Bronaugh.

In volleyball, the female Vikings won the All-City tournament, after having a successful season.

"Spirit Involves everyone," said Beverly Williams, captain of the Varsity Pep Squad. "This year's school spirit has improved in all classes," she noted.

The Viking Pep Squad was on hand to cheer at sports events during the year with unyielding enthusiasm.

Participating in parades and assemblies, the cheerleaders added that extra touch of pageantry to each event. The spirit of the girls was so vibrant, they persuaded the underclassmen to become more involved with various activities at Parkview.

Impersonating the various sports at Parkview the Viking Pep Squad performed a skit for the freshman class at their mixer at the beginning of the year. Before school, the Viking Pep Club helped out at the pep rallies held in the Student Center as the cheerleaders led everyone in "Hail to the Vikings" or another of their many yells.

Leading the corps were officers Jan Cain, Susan Sweaney, Vicki Gleason and Janet Hockett.

Sponsor and majorette discussed a performance.

"Lassies Give much time and work, that the public is never aware of in preparation for the corps' activities. After-school endurance marching, 7:00 morning practice, and weekly meetings are just part of the preparations," stated Linda York, senior.

The girls performed in numerous assemblies, all home football games, the out-of-town Cape Girardeau football game, Veterans' Day Parade and the Eldorado Springs Christmas Parade.

They were also invited to march in competition in the Southwest Missouri State University Homecoming Parade, placing first; in Evangel College Parade, placing second, and in the Springfield Christmas Parade, receiving a "one" rating.

Also requiring much attention was their annual chili supper and Lassie concert. The corps was also invited to perform at a Kansas City Royal baseball game in the spring.

Perfectly guided ranks and columns were essential for marchers in Veterans' Day Parade.

Lassies braved cold mornings at practices.

Donna Newton and Evon Creson performed various jobs while working at the chili supper.

Jill Kuklenski and Cary Williamson were surprisingly able to grab a few winks during a bus trip.

"Practices Were rough," commented Ed Goodwin, drum major of the marching band, "especially since they were so early in the morning, but they were well worth it."

The marching band entertained during half time at the home football games, and the Vikettes promoted spirit as well as adding interest. In addition to playing in several assemblies, the band marched in the Veterans Day Parade and in the Christmas parades in Springfield and Ava.

Other activities included the trip to St. Louis to perform in the Veiled Prophet Parade.

The annual spring concert of the symphonic band concluded the band's schedule.

Drum major for the band was Ed Goodwin.

Cellists and bassists showed intense concentration in preparation for one of their many concerts.

Rick Salvador kept a steady beat on the Congas.

"People Seem to be attracted to classical music now, more than in past years," commented orchestra concertmistress Cary Williamson.

The orchestra was involved in many concerts with the climax the musical, No, No, Nanette

The jazz ensemble, a fast growing and popular group, was kept busy during the year with contests, concerts, and informal engagements. The ensemble also provided half-time entertainment at all home basketball games.

For the first time, the entire concert band was included in the marching band. This activity kept the musicians busy until concert season began in the winter. The concert band participated in the Massed Music Festival along with the symphonic band and the orchestra.

"Dramatics Club gave me an added insight into the theater," said Mary Kay Dodson.

Many students gained a broader understanding of the theater through participation in Dramatics Club. Club members often shared their experiences in class with one another at club meetings through pantomimes and improvisations.

Parkview's National Forensic League chapter spent most of its time preparing for tournament competition. NFL speakers traveled to ten tournaments during the school year, closing their competition with the state tournament in March. Parkview hosted a tournament in February.

Membership in NFL was awarded to speech students who accumulated at least twenty-five points in tournament competition.

Returning to NFL were Krissie Renie and Doug Harpool who won last year's state championship in debate.

A field trip to the Southwest Missouri State University library was an interesting event for Library Club members. The club also had its annual picnic in May.

as Curt Likins and Chris Dannenmaier were initiated into Quill and Scroll.

"Enthusiasm Was high in Canterbury Society this year. Members have worked hard and presented some very good programs," commented Phyllis Kerr, a member of the club.

Canterbury Society is composed of senior English students from IVL, IVC, and Masterpieces, and each section presented plays from its area of study at the meetings. Activities included special speakers, plays, and the Victorian Tea held at Christmas. Highlighting the year was the annual spring costume dinner.

Type Lice, Parkview's press club, is opened to all students interested in journalism and the news media. Activities included visiting local television stations, and members from the news media spoke at meetings.

Quill and Scroll is made up of students who have made an outstanding contribution to journalism. The club assisted in the annual spring award banquet.

Brian Zahn examined a Merry Christmas greeting in German at German Club's Christmas party.

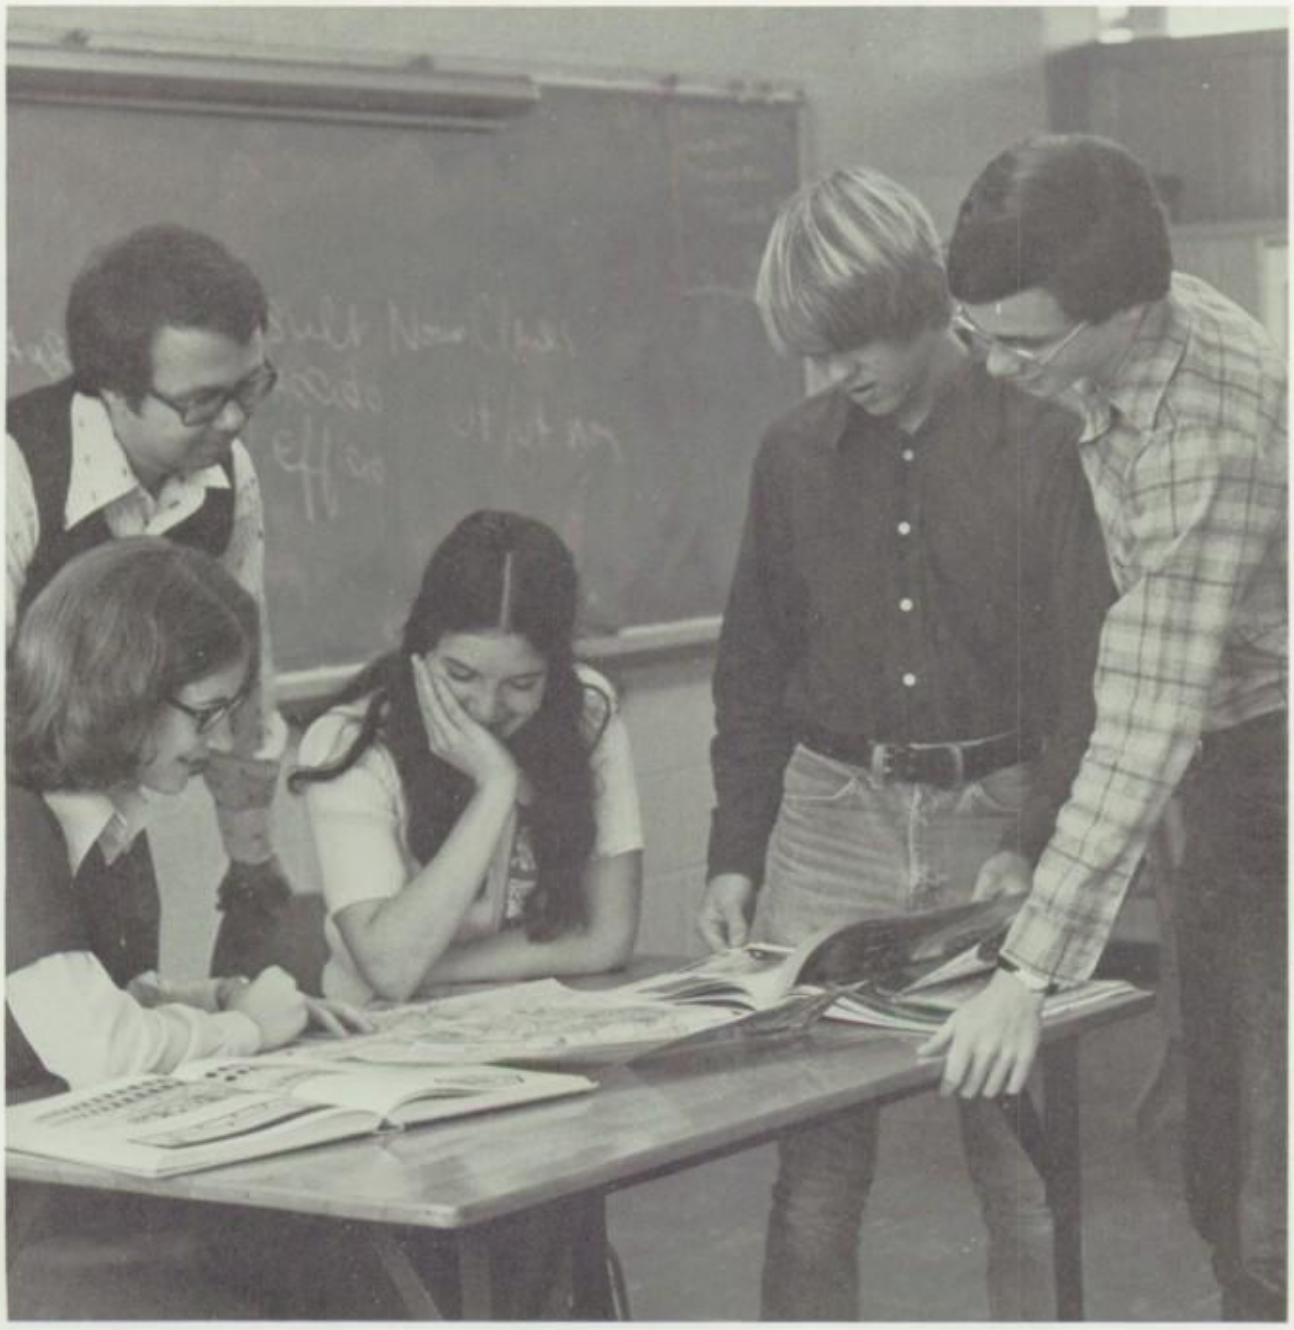
Putting up displays was part of club activities.

"It Got Off to an excellent start; we got a lot of things done. We're hoping it will be even better next year." That was the opinion about German Club of Jacque James along with many other of the club members.

Since this was the club's first year, most of the first part of the year was spent in organizing. A constitution was written, and the club affiliated with the National Federation of Students of German.

Deutscher Verein's other activities during the year included inviting foreign exchange students to meetings and holding a spring banquet. The club also had a drive to promote the study of German among next year's freshmen.

Club members enjoyed events outside of school.



Preliminary planning for a trip to Rome by Una Voce members included examining maps and brochures.

"We See that 'Latin Lives' today, in the various activities of the Latin club," commented senior Joe Thompson about the club's projects this year.

The highlight of the year for five club members was a trip to Rome during Christmas vacation with Mr. Kohr, the club's sponsor, and some former Latin students.

The two big activities involving the whole club were the Saturnalia, the Latin Christmas celebration, and the banquet in the spring.

Other club activities included an initiation ceremony for new members, selling Latin bumper stickers, attending a statewide Latin convention, and observing Latin Week.

The Mardi Gras celebration in February was planned carefully by the club members.

A French meal was prepared at Christmas.

"French Club Is one of the best clubs I've ever been in," commented Lou Ann Batten.

Le Cercle Francais members took part in the study of French ideals and interests.

As a guest speaker, the club members invited a French chef to discuss French foods, schools, youth, and customs.

Christmas carols were translated into French and sung in the halls of St. John's Hospital. Los Caballeros also participated with Spanish songs.

In February, Le Cercle Francais planned a Mardi Gras, a celebration in preparation for Lent, a period of fasting before Easter.

Spanish customs and activities were explored by Los Caballeros members.

"Spanish Club Has been a really exciting experience," stated a club member.

Participants in Los Caballeros studied Spanish culture as well as the language.

The club also created a Mexican pinata, containing small Christmas gifts, and went Christmas caroling at St. John's Hospital with Le Cercle Francais on December 18.

During Foreign Language Week in March, in which all foreign language groups participated, skits were performed in the Spanish language by the club members.

Los Caballeros members also took part in foreign language fairs in March and in May. These dealt with individual languages and the culture and customs behind them.

The Spanish tongue was studied with interest.

Donna Newton discussed plans for Daddy-Date Night with HELP members.

"It's Fun," commented Rana Faaborg about Home Economic Leaders and Partners.

This was the first year that boys were able to join the club, and several took advantage of the opportunity.

One of HELP's main activities was the Angel Project which sent Christmas baskets to people at the state mental institution.

A senior banquet in the spring ended the year's activities.

Future Teachers of America gave students who were considering the teaching profession as an occupation a chance to see what it was like through the cadet teacher program. Cadet teachers this year were Sherri Stapp, Jan Cain, Jill Kuklenski, and Becky Sharp.

FTA hosted a tea for the faculty in December.

Future Business Leaders of America were involved in various service projects this year such as repairing toys for the Salvation Army's Toys for Tots program, preparing a Christmas basket, and holding a Christmas party. A field trip to Union National Bank gave FBLA members a pleasant excursion into the business world.

Jim Vinson, Laury Perryman, and Tom Chapman prepared decorations for the COE banquet.

"COE Goes beyond a regular day in school. It provides valuable experience and opportunities that might not be available otherwise," commented Walter George, senior cooperational occupational education student.

Activities for the COE Club included the Leadership Conference, held February 27, in which all members of COE were eligible to participate. Winners of the various areas of competition in the contests were honored at the annual Employee-Employer Banquet, March 14, at the Howard Johnson Motor Lodge.

Students involved in the Graff Vocational-Technical school were eligible for membership in the Distributive Education Clubs of America or Vocational Industrial Clubs of America. The COE club at Parkview voted not to affiliate with VICA or DECA this year.

Vo-Tech students who were members of VICA sponsored a skating party for the children at the Springfield Children's Home and a Christmas party and dance for members of the clubs. Winners of their district conference held in the spring were eligible to attend the state conference held in May. The Leadership Conference also included members of DECA as participants.

to anyone who loves horses. Even people without horses have a lot of fun," was Nancy Tucker's opinion of the club.

Members got a chance to enjoy and learn about a hobby not related to school through horse shows, films, guest speakers, visits to stables, and trail rides.

The Archery and Chess clubs are two other clubs which give students a chance to pursue their hobbies. Both clubs were involved in competition with other schools and also in intramural games.

Future Farmers of America is for all students enrolled in a vocational agriculture course at Vo-Tech. This club was also involved in competition, judging animals and farm produce. Members worked on individual projects, but they also had fun such as going on a spring float trip.

Key Club members entertained by singing at a fall party held for residents at a nursing home.

"To Better Serve our community and school by helping and learning from others was the goal of Parkview's Hi-Y," commented Ron Looney, president.

Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y are both youth service groups whose purpose is to create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community high standards of Christian character.

Both clubs participated in the Model State Youth Government program in Jefferson City, Missouri. Members were also able to travel to Taos, New Mexico, for the annual ski trip.

Tri-Hi-Y also held parties for a nursing home and for the Diagnostic Clinic.

Key Clubbers' motto, "We Build," was shown by various community and school activities. Besides holding a party at a nursing home and selling ribbons to promote school spirit, Key Club members also worked with the mentally retarded on a year-round basis.

Members traveled to Kansas City, Missouri for the annual Missouri-Arkansas Regional Convention in April.

Linda Turner helped in the "Campus Clean Up."

"Participation Has been excellent this year," commented Phillip Page, student body president. "The students have supported all of the activities from working on the Viking Festival to supporting our teams at athletic events. They were really great in every way and made Parkview what it was this year."

Student Congress had a variety of activities this year which included spirit contests, dances, and a movie offered to PHS students following a football game.

Goals included revising the constitution and holding an Arts and Crafts Festival in the spring.

Parkview's Safety Council assumed an active role in school life. Campus Clean Up was its first major project. Other activities were revising the constitution and conducting a new project which included making safety announcements before holidays and weekends.

Freshman gridiron prospects lined up during a practice session.

The Transition to the pace of high school life can be difficult, but the members of the '73-'74 freshman class were quick in finding their role and were soon playing a large part in the Parkview community.

For some it was football, for some it was pep club; different people had varying activities. Whatever the activity, the freshmen discovered that there was some facet of Parkview life that they could personally relate to.

The new-found abilities and experiences held promise that the years ahead would yield many memorable times.

Becky Cottingim was featured twirler.

Julie Culton, Kelly Fuller, and Ann Mullis showed their pep.

s the first exposure the freshmen received to student government at Parkview.

Organizations gave freshmen opportunities to share as individuals in group endeavor. Their own interests and talents determined in which area of school life they should participate.

Bob Rentfro, sophomore class president stated, "As a class officer I have become more aware of the many different aspects of life at Parkview, and I think this class will make Parkview a better school than it already is."

Gary Bowman, sophomore class vice-president commented, "I feel honored to have been a class officer of such an outstanding class that shall continue to be outstanding in years to come."

Eileen Calame, sophomore class secretary said, "The students of our class made this a beneficial year for the officers by participating in the many school activities and just generally being involved."

An Expected, but not so popular part of the sophomore class, was testing. Standardized tests prepared the students for careers and showed their increasing interest and development in the skills necessary for careers or for continuing education.

Doug Page, president, commented, "Being an officer made me more aware of the problems of the class and how to alleviate them. As far as school spirit was concerned, we tried to promote as much as possible and make this the best class at Parkview."

Doug Page, president

Linda Turner, vice-president stated, "Being vice-president helped me become more aware of school-wide problems, and what I could do to help correct them. As officers we merely served as encouragers to get as many people involved as possible. The credit goes to the kids."

Linda Turner, vice-president

Tammy Vaughan, secretary said, "I became more concerned with the problems both on the student and administration levels, by being an officer. Looking back, I see the class accomplished quite a lot, but there was still some things we could have done."

Being Involved was the keynote as many activities were available to juniors in 1973-74. Sandy Boggess and Scott Glover were two who took advantage of some of those activities.

Sandy reigned as Miss Merrie Christmas over the Christmas Parade November 17. The two attendants were also Parkview students.

Scott got very involved in art class as he prepared a piece of work for an exhibition.

"The hardest task any officer faces is stimulating and encouraging his class to participate in school activities. In the case of the seniors, it was a little bit more difficult due jobs or other outside interests. An officer of a class is still just a member of that class, simply a bit more involved. No one will tell you what the class wants, you have to find out for yourself," Mike Testerman commented.

Mike Testerman, president

"The last of the first twelve years has ended; but the memories haven't. Involvement has been special, and trying to keep the class together was important. The uniqueness of this year's senior class was a definite highlight," stated Larry Hook.

Larry Hook, vice-president

"Cooperation from this senior class has been excellent; the enthusiasm, tremendous. The result of this enthusiasm has been the officers working well together," remarked Teena Kirby.

Lonny Magors diligently outlined a large chart for his science class.

Seniors Worked hard to be leaders in every facet of school life. To excel and to set an example for other classes were goals to be proud of.

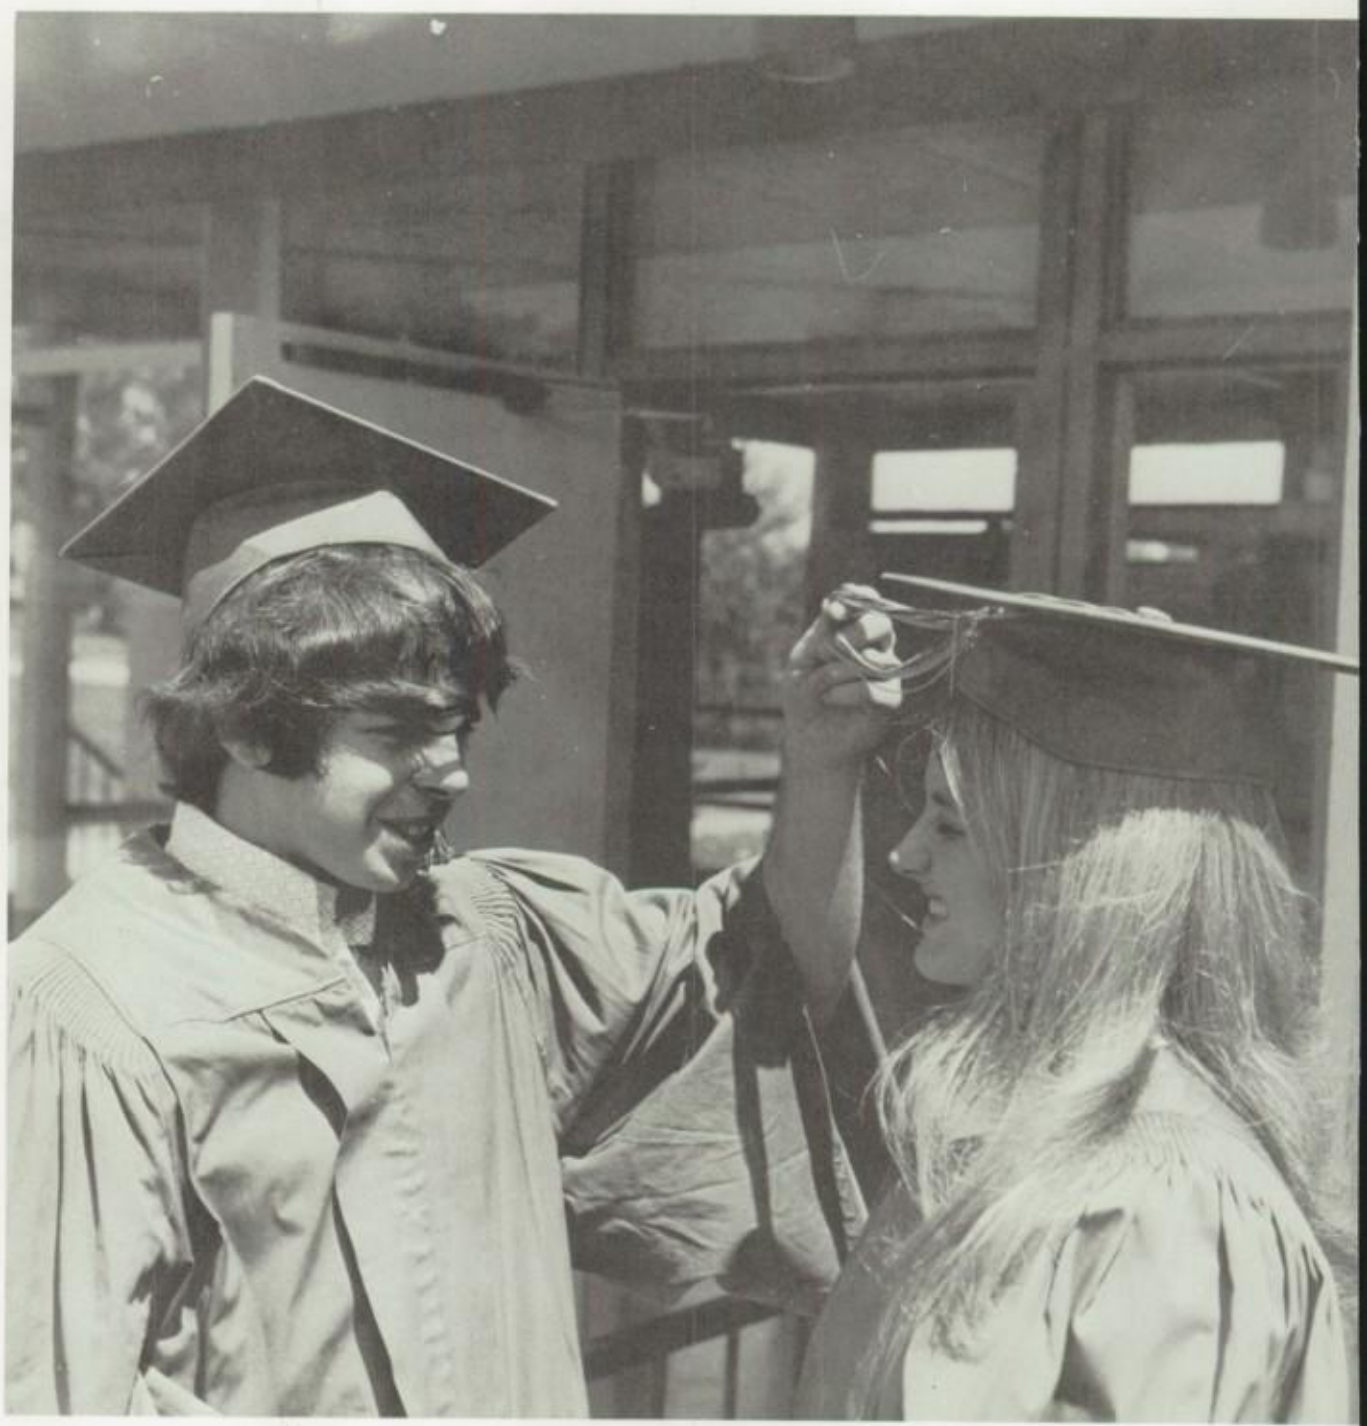
Spirit Was a major outlet for competition between classes at Parkview with the seniors doing their best to catch first place.

Tim Hughes showed his spirit by making posters.

This Was the climax for the seniors at Parkview and indeed for all seniors everywhere. Graduation . . . it is a symbol of achievement, and a time for a well-earned rest.



A feeling of relief lingered for Doug Harpool and Beverly Williams after graduation ceremonies.

In Memoriam

Mrs. Ferne Westbrooke
Born August 3, 1908
Died August 22, 1973

Swept in the current of time,
A single life illumines
A sea of darkness,
Casting over the whole
A sparkling sheen,
Created by the radiance of faith.

Acknowledgement

Just as the changing seasons changed the face of the campus, so has the passing of this year changed the lives of the people at Parkview.

We hope to have preserved some of the moments that have made up the 1973-74 school year — the happy moments as well as sad, moments of excitement and sometimes of monotony.

The editors gratefully acknowledge the assistance of the Journalism II students, the work of the photographers, and the help of Mrs. Mar'Lyn Cowan, adviser. Thanks are also due to students and staff of Parkview, for without their cooperation this book could not have been produced.

Debbie,

I can't believe this year is almost over. Then next year we'll get out of this fucking place.

Anyway, have fun this summer when Dennis comes, call me up when comes, maybe Danny and I can party with you guys.

Keep in touch. I've really enjoyed getting to know you better and having you as a friend this year.

Check ya later.

Debbie
Been nice knowing you this year. We gotta party some this summer See you later.
